SINGAPORE FORCES FIGHT ON

Call for Redoubled U. S. War Effort

LEADERS ASK OFFSETTING OF SINGAPORE

Admonition Follows Word American Troops Reach Dutch Island.

CAPITOL HILL GLOOMY

Legislators Concede Loss of Fortress, Say 'We Have Just Begun To Fight.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Grim congressional leaders told the nation today it must do its utmost to offset the loss of Singapore by redoubling efforts to get quantities of planes, tanks and guns to the East Indies, Australia and Burma.

This earnest admonition followed a fresh demand on the country's existing military resources by the dispatch of U. S. army contingents to the Dutch island of Curacao off the northern coast of Venezuela.

The troops reinforced the Dutch units which have been guarding the highly important oil refinery centers on the main island of Curacao and on Aruba, another island in the colony.

This move was another tacit reminder of the unpredictable, worldwide character of the war, for the Curacao colony lies well behind the Anglo-American shield of bases commanding the southern approaches to the Caribbean and thus would seem protected adequately enough already.

However, American and Dutch military authorities evidently decided that this was not sufficient because of the possibility of a destructive sneak raid, and the garrisons were reinforced.

The decision bespoke a determination not to repeat in this hemisphere the costly mistakes of the Philippines, Singapore and other key Pacific points where inadequate garrisons have helped make possible spectacular enemy successes.

The debacle at Singapore cast an air of gloom over Capitol Hill, where most legislators conceded that loss of the great base would prolong the war. However, Senator Bailey (D., N.C.) said that the American people should not be discouraged by such early setbacks.

"We have just begun to fight," he declared. "Nobody should lose

Quiet Returns to Butler as School Row Calms Down

Near-normalcy returned to the Butler village school district today for the first time in a week.

At least there have been no demonstrations in the past 24 hours by factions involved in the controversy over ouster proceedings against School Superintendent Willard S. Weekley. The school's 450 pupils were back in classrooms for the third successive day.

Neither was there any evidence that Weekley supporters or anti-Weekleyites had any further demonstrations planned. Both appeared satisfied to await the outcome of a hearing to be held by the board on the charges of "misconduct" filed against the superintendent by 11 Butler and Worthington township residents.

The hearing date depends on Weekley who has until Feb. 16 to file his answer. The date for his appearance before the board will then be set, school officials said.

Do You Have 5 Pounds of Scrap Metal?

Then Gather It Up and Help Legion Reach Its Objective.

Contributions of at least five pounds of scrap metal from every Mansfield and Richland county resident was the goal set today in the American Legion's campaign to collect scrap iron for defense purposes.

As the Mansfield campaign entered its fourth day, Glenn W. Marriott, chairman of the drive, urged all residents to make a final inspection of their closets, basements and attics to dig out any old scrap which might be given. The scrap will be sold to the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company currently in need of scrap metal.

Peter J. Schadek, publicity director, said that 94,595 pounds of scrap had been collected by Legion volunteers in the first three days of the campaign. Schadek said that the four trucks being used for the collections, were about 75 calls behind schedule but that all collections would be made.

In addition to the collection in the city, trucks are being sent to county depots to pick up scrap. Trucks are to be sent to Bellville and Lexington tomorrow to pick up scrap from the designated collection places.

Marriott said that not only will the scrap metal be used to help provide employment at the Empire plant but that the proceeds from the sale of the scrap will be used to help Mansfield and Richland county youths in the armed services.

Residents having scrap to contribute have been asked to telephone 3772-6 and to leave their addresses so that the collection trucks may call. Contributions are to be placed at the curb and will be collected as soon as possible.

Workers have erected a snow fence at the entrance to Central park to provide a scrap metal dump where the collections will be stored. Residents wishing to toss in their own contributions may do so. The same site was used for the storage of aluminum in the city last fall.

RAID COAST

British Planes Strike at Calais and Dover.

DOVER, Eng. —(INS)— A large force of British fighting planes carried out an offensive sweep over the Straits of Dover this afternoon, reaching out at Calais and Dunkirk. Earlier in the day, R. A. F. planes carried out an active patrol of the Channel.

German long-range guns began shelling the Dover coast shortly before 1 p. m. The bombardment lasted 45 minutes and started with a salvo of four shells, followed by salvoes of two.

Earlier in the day, enemy planes came over part of the southeast coast. They were driven off by the R. A. F. and anti-aircraft.

DAYTON —(INS)— Sherman Hypes, 38, one of two city workhouse prisoners who are fasting "until God commands," today took a quantity of coffee to "warm" his body and continued a penance that has run for 14 days.

Albert Bowser, 42, who has fasted for 20 days, continued to drink only a small amount of water. Bowser is serving a six months term for refusing to send his children to school.

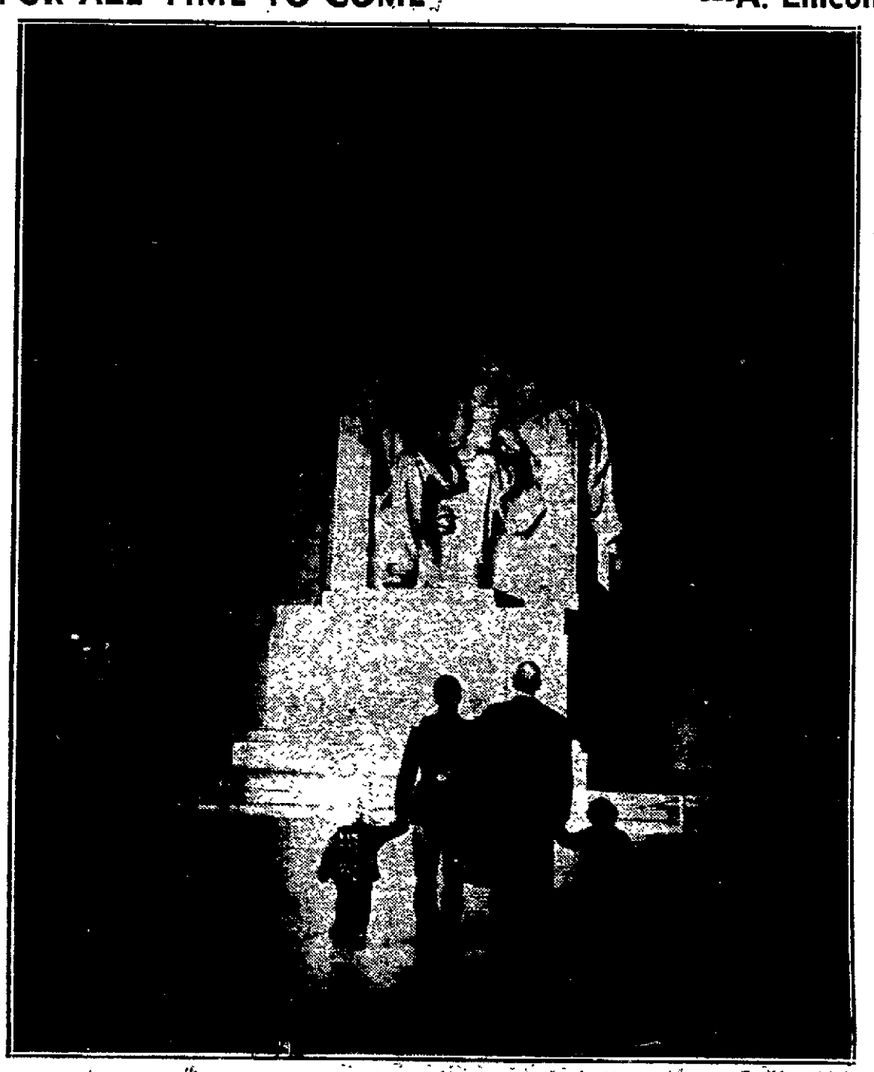
'FOR ALL TIME TO COME' ---A. Lincoln



THE VOICE OF LINCOLN DOWN THE AGES—"I always feel inclined, when I happen to say anything to soldiers, to impress upon them the importance of success in this contest. It is not merely for today, but for all time to come, that we should perpetuate for our children's children that great and free government which we have enjoyed all our lives. . . . Still, let us, not be over sanguine of a speedy, final triumph. Let us be quite sober. Let us diligently apply the means, never doubting that a just God, in His own good time, will give us the rightful result."

Mansfield Joins Nation In Tribute to Lincoln

Schools Stage Programs, Busy Congress Pauses to Pay Respects on Civil War President's Birthday.

Mansfield joined the nation today in tribute to Abraham Lincoln, the rail-splitter who became the Civil war president and a national hero. Lincoln was born 133 years ago today at Hodgenville, Ky.

Boys and girls in most of the city and county schools presented Lincoln day programs today or otherwise recognized the birthday of the great statesman and humanitarian. City and state offices and Mansfield banks were closed.

County offices remained open by decree of the commissioners who said they will observe Washington's birthday as a holiday on Feb. 23. The first president's birthday, Feb. 22, is on Sunday.

Mansfield's Lincoln day dinner, which will be sponsored by the War Veterans' Republican club, will be delayed until Friday night so that Thomas J. Herbert, Ohio attorney general, can make the address. He will speak at 6:30 p. m., tomorrow at the First Methodist church.

PLEADS GUILTY

Three Judges Decide Fate of Slayer of Gambler.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— A three-judge tribunal headed by Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick tomorrow will decide the fate of Dominick Marzano, 25, who pleaded guilty to the slaying of Michael Nester, Cleveland gambler, in an attempted holdup last September.

Marzano, serving a term in Ohio penitentiary for auto theft since December, 1941, confessed to the killing Jan. 7 police said, after being accused as the triggerman by a companion.

HULL TO REST

Dispirited Over War, Plans Vacation In South.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Secretary of State Cordell Hull, said by his associates to have been very tired and dispirited since the outbreak of war, today plans a southern vacation of several weeks.

An attack of grippe has kept him from his desk for more than a week. His absence may revive reports that the 70-year-old secretary is contemplating retirement from active government service.

There was no official indication that his present plans for recuperation and vacation mean anything more than appears on the surface. While Hull is away—probably in Florida—Undersecretary of State Sumner Wells will be acting secretary.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The leasing of another 1,000 nickel parking meters at a cost of $45,000 was authorized yesterday by Service Director Grover F. Clements. The 1,000 meters installed approximately a year ago has produced $105,222 in revenue.

'All Must Have Confidence,' Adams Says In C. of C. Address

By KEN WOODMAN

"America faces her hour of destiny. . . ."

It was Claris Adams, Columbus, president of the Ohio State Life Insurance company, speaking. And the occasion was the 13th annual dinner of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, held last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

More than 350 persons heard Adams declare that in this hour of destiny the question has become: "What can business give?"

He said that the war has brought an end to the New Deal philosophy of producing less and returned the nation to the philosophy that brought it greatness—the philosophy that makes people do things.

In a quip that brought a burst of applause from his audience, jamming the hotel ball room and mezzanine, Adams said:

"Henry Ford will do more to win this war than Harry Hopkins, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Melvin Douglas, all put together."

REMOVES NAMES OF 1,000 VOTERS

Election Board Clears Files of Mansfielders Failing To Ballot In 2 Years.

Names of more than 1,000 Mansfielder's who have failed to vote during the past two years will be removed soon from the eligible voters' lists at the county board of elections office, election board officials said today.

The announcement followed completion of a check of the board's more than 20,000 registration cards by Mrs. Nelle E. Ports and Mrs. Marie Bell who have been employed as special assistants to the board for several weeks.

Notices of removal of the names from the board's lists probably will not be mailed until next month, it was said.

Persons who receive notices must register again with the election board to re-establish their voting eligibility. Registrations will be received until shortly before the primary next Aug. 11. Election laws require that city residents vote at least once in two years to keep their names on the registration lists.

Dorothy Thompson Kicked, Bitten By Cafe Brawler

NEW YORK — (INS) — Dorothy Thompson, writer and lecturer, suffered painful injuries today when she was kicked and bitten by an unidentified blond woman who had just been ejected from a cafe for shouting "heil Hitler."

The incident started in the Safe Royal, east side restaurant frequented by celebrities. The blond woman, described as obviously intoxicated, began shouting "Heil Hitler" and abusing those at nearby tables. Miss Thompson started to leave the restaurant just as the young woman was ordered from the place.

On the sidewalk, Miss Thompson chided the woman's escort for permitting the young woman to make a spectacle of herself. Without warning, the woman jumped from the taxicab she had entered and assaulted the writer. Miss Thompson was kicked in the abdomen, in addition to being bitten on the finger.

In the excitement, Miss Thompson's assailant hurried away in the taxicab.

FLIER TO TELL JURY OF WORK WITH GERMANS

Laura Ingalls Expected To Testify She Took Funds For Patriotic Purpose.

U. S. RESTS CASE

Government Charges Aviatrix Took Orders From Nazi Embassy Attache.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Laura Ingalls, 38-year-old flier, will tell a jury that she entered into dealings with a German embassy official and accepted money from him for patriotic purposes.

She is on trial charged with willful failure to register as a paid Nazi propaganda agent and is expected to be the only witness for the defense.

The government rested its case yesterday after introducing evidence to show that Miss Ingalls stumped the country last spring, summer and fall making isolationist speeches under the direction of Baron Ulrich Von Gienanth, second secretary of the German embassy.

The government's evidence, presented during three court sessions, consisted largely of letters written by Miss Ingalls herself and of testimony by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and by the woman who acted as intermediary between the flier and Von Gienanth.

Judia Kraus, German-born spinster who formerly worked for various government agencies here, testified that she cleared Miss Ingalls' reports to Gienanth and sent various sums of money to her in the baron's behalf.

Defense Attorney James F. Reilly told the jury at the trial's outset that Miss Ingalls received $400 in all from Gienanth and admitted that she had made overtures to German embassy officials.

Her motive, Reilly declared, was to conduct a private investigation against the Germans and "serve her country." Miss Ingalls had tried three times, twice since the outbreak of war in Europe, to gain employment with the FBI, he said, but was rejected.

FIGHT DRAFT

Canadians Riot In Protest Over Conscription.

MONTREAL — (AP) — Rioting anti-conscriptionists, shouting their sentiments in French, injured seven policemen and several civilians and shattered many windows in a 1½-hour demonstration which led to a number of arrests here last night.

"A bas, a bas, a bas la conscription" (down, down, down with conscription) was the cry of bands of some 300 youths who paraded militantly through east-end streets in this major city of Quebec province—a province in which persons of French origin make up more than three-fourths of the total population.

The disorders followed a rally at which speakers urged a "no" vote in the forthcoming dominion plebiscite to determine whether the government should be released from its pre-election pledges not to introduce conscription for overseas war service. Police estimated that 7,000 attended.

Canadian units abroad are made up of volunteers.

25 Evacuation Ships Blasted By Japanese

British Troops Fall Back After Bitter Counter Attacks But Scorn Jap Demand for Surrender; Battle Closes In on City.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—The Singapore disaster rocked Britain today and brought a demand that Prime Minister Winston Churchill establish a "government of national union" in which the dominions and empire would be represented.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—A British military commentator said at 3 p. m. (10 a. m. EWT) today that communications to Singapore appear still to be functioning.

(By Associated Press)

Bloody fighting raged nearer to the smoke-shrouded streets of Singapore today as British troops, scorning a demand for surrender, fell back after bitter counterattacks during the night while Japanese planes smashed at a fleet of 25 evacuation ships in Singapore harbor.

The Rome radio, whose reports have often been premature, broadcast a Tokyo claim that the Japanese flag was flying over Raffles Square in the center of Singapore.

Simultaneously, a Tokyo broadcast said Japanese troops in the northwest outskirts of the city had launched an attack to drive out the British "remnants."

The Tokyo report implied that there had been a halt in the offensive while the British rejected a demand for capitulation and that the battle for the city had not yet been won.

C. Yates McDaniel, of the Associated Press, the last foreign correspondent remaining in Singapore, said British infantry charged the Japanese and drove them back at several points.

McDaniel's dispatch, filed from a ship lying offshore, under repeated attack by Rising Sun dive bombers, said, however, that the battle lines were moving steadily closer to Singapore.

"We were dive-bombed half a dozen times, but we are still afloat and may get away tonight," McDaniel said.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters said Japanese troops had penetrated far into British positions in a drive from Bukit Timah, only 5½ miles northwest of the heart of the city.

"At dawn today, strong Japanese army units assisted by the air arm launched a powerful mopping-up offensive to crush British resistance around the water reservoir in the central part of the

DRIVE: Germans Say Soviets Pushed Back In Donets Basin

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's high command asserted today that German, Rumanian and Croatian troops had driven back the Russians on the Donets river front where the Red armies have been storming at the gates of Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine, and other key cities.

The Nazi command said mixed Axis forces, "continuing their attacks, threw the enemy further back in spite of stubborn resistance."

It was one of the first times in many weeks that the Germans claimed they had again taken the initiative, although Soviet front-line dispatches this week have noted a gradual stiffening of Nazi resistance after two months of steady retreat.

On the North African front, British headquarters reported that imperial artillery fire had scattered a strong tank-supported Axis force in the desert near El Mechili and that British mobile units "continued their aggressive activities" in the main battle zone 40 miles west of Tobruk.

In general, the situation remained unchanged.

Russia claimed further gains by the Red army against Hitler's divisions in the winter offensive and said guerrillas had wiped out 1,462 soldiers during January in the Leningrad district alone.

The Berlin foreign office, seeking to justify measures taken to control irregulars behind the lines, declared resistance of the Russian population in German-occupied territory was such that it could not be overlooked by "any army in the world without endangering its own security."

British Royal Air force bombers attacked objectives in Nazi-held territory last night for the second successive night, London authorities announced.

WATCHER: Newsman Still on Scene of Singapore Battle

(Editor's Note: C. Yates McDaniel, the last American correspondent in Singapore, still is on the job. Yesterday, the Associated Press correspondent filed what he thought would be his final dispatch from the devastated city as the battle rolled closer and closer. McDaniel heeded British advice to "go!" But today the ship aboard which he obtained deck passage still was in Singapore harbor and McDaniel still was filing the news.)

By C. YATES McDANIEL

SINGAPORE —(AP)— The battle lines moved steadily closer to the heart of Singapore today after bitter counterattacks last night by British infantry, supported by a powerful artillery barrage, drove the Japanese back at several points north of the city.

During the night Singapore's guns heavily bombarded Japanese positions across the Straits of Johore northeast of the Islands, a direction whence no Japanese attack has developed.

British and Japanese artillery exchanged the heaviest fire throughout today.

Shells from the enemy's guns exploded steadily in the northern part of the city while Japanese dive-bombers and high-level bombers were in action incessantly over the Island.

One vessel carrying the ministry of information and the Malayan Broadcasting corporation staff, including its far eastern director, Robert Scott, left yesterday but the ship in which I am a deck passenger along with Capt. Henry Steel, last of the army public relations officers, still is here.

Lying offshore we were bombed incessantly until sundown yesterday and throughout today. We were dive-bombed half a dozen times but we are still afloat and may get away tonight.

CITY AWARDS CONTRACTS FOR STREET WORK

Buys Supplies To Launch 1942 Improvement Program; Slag, Stone, Bricks Ordered.

Contracts have been awarded to seven companies to supply the city with crushed slag, gravel, cement, coal and other materials needed for maintenance work by the various municipal departments during the coming year.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that the contracts were in most cases awarded to the companies offering the lowest bid. In some cases, however, the same bid was offered by several companies and the contracts were given to the company selected by the board of control.

Voegele Bros., 199-207 North Main street, was awarded two contracts, one for supplying five carloads of coal for use at the municipal garbage incinerator at prices ranging from $3.95 to $4.48 per ton, according to grade. The other contract given this company was for 700 cubic yards of filter sand to be used by the city's sewage disposal plant. Rates on the filter sand ran from $1.05 to $1.25 per cubic yard.

A contract for the medical and surgical care of the city's indigents was awarded to Dr. Charles R. Keller for $5,000 for the entire year.

Kallmerten and Baer, Inc., Mansfield, was awarded a contract for 100 cubic yards of ready-mixed concrete in four classes with prices ranging from $8.75 to $11.65 per cubic yard.

The R. O. Darling and Son company of Mansfield won a contract to supply the city with crushed and graded slag for the repair of city streets. The contract calls for prices ranging from 73 cents to $1.30 per ton with a 10-cent reduction on projects calling for more than 100 tons on one project in one day.

Another contract for the street department was awarded to the Medal Brick and Tile company of Wooster which will supply paving brick for the repair of streets at rates ranging from $31 to $38.75 per thousand.

Vitrified sewer pipe for maintenance work by the street and sewers departments was ordered from the M. L. Branyan and Bros. company of Mansfield. The contract was for ten cars of pipe and tile and all bids were made from a standard list, all companies offering the same bid.

Bid of $7 for Old Trunk Pays Big Dividends

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—(INS)—Bidding sight unseen on unclaimed baggage at auctions often results in just added junk, but Mr. and Mrs. William B. Edwards of Roseville feel they have been well repaid for their $7 bid on an old battered trunk.

The Edwards' make a hobby of such purchases and are even more intent now on future discoveries.

As a couple rummaged through the contents of the ancient trunk—their latest buy—they found clothing, sheets, blankets and pillow cases; a lady's new raincoat worth well over the investment, price of the trunk; dishes, glassware, four cameras, a child's magic lantern with colored slides, and a kerosene lamp typical of 1880.

There was also jewelry, including a diamond and ruby ring, and an opal brooch. Perhaps the most valuable article was a Chinese brass smoking pipe with all the attachments. It is a museum piece.

Apparently the only object missing in the vast collection of the trunk was a clue as to who were the original owners.

INSPECT UNIT

BRITISH FORCES FIGHTING ON AT SINGAPORE

Japs Smash at Evacuation Fleet of 25 Ships; Fight Nears City.

island," a Japanese communique said.

The Tokyo radio, declaring that the conquest of all Singapore island was "only a matter of hours," asserted that Japanese forces were pushing deep into the city itself after occupying the famous Singapore racetrack in the northwest suburbs.

A Singapore broadcast, reporting terrific losses inflicted on the enemy, declared:

"Crack Japanese divisions have taken and are taking a hammering that will have considerable influence on the future course of the war. . . .

"Singapore's defenders have no mountain fortress to which they can retreat, no natural obstacles to the invader such as the terrain which has helped Gen. Douglas MacArthur's gallant defense of Batan peninsula. But Singapore's defenders have this in common with MacArthur's men—the same courage, the same fortitude, the same will to win every vital hour."

On other fronts in the critical struggle:

DUTCH INDIES—Tokyo headquarters declared sea-borne Japanese troops had completely occupied Macassar, chief port and capital of Dutch Celebes island, as well as the town of Gasmata on Australian-mandated New Britain island.

An Indies communique said Dutch troops were still fiercely resisting the Japanese invaders in various sectors of the 3,000-mile archipelago, but gave no details.

Aneta, the Dutch news agency, said Dutch forces on Celebes and Borneo were believed to be fighting desperately to stem Japanese drives against Macassar and Bandjermasin, Borneo southeast coastal port—both aimed at Java, the heart of the Indies.

BURMA—Imperilled British troops battled to halt a Japanese thrust across the strategic Salween river toward Rangoon, the Burmese capital.

A British communique acknowledged that strong Japanese forces had crossed the river and that the city of Martaban, 80 miles by air from Rangoon, was in enemy hands.

In the 13-day-old siege of Singapore, hundreds of fires set by Japanese bombers and artillery bombardment raged in the city.

Virtually unopposed in the air, Japanese dive bombers were blasting at British troops and rescue ships in the harbor.

Hundreds of women and children already had been removed from the doomed city.

Domei, official Japanese news agency, said the ships were preparing to rescue trapped British forces. Direct hits were scored on 10 ships, Domei said, with two left in flames.

Latest word from Singapore indicated that Japan's invasion hordes still had not captured the city at 5:15 p. m. today (6:15 a. m., EWT). The British war office in London said it was still in communication with the beleaguered city at that time.

London military quarters said outnumbered British defenders still held a line from the naval base, in the north, to Pasir Panjang, a village on the south shore, west of Singapore city.

An official communique, however, acknowledged that the Japanese drive from the west had effected "some infiltration."

Tokyo dispatches quoted by the Vichy (Frech) radio said "all urban territory, including the commercial port, are in Japanese hands."

Imperial Tokyo headquarters did not claim outright capture of the city but asserted that Japanese troops had won "complete mastery over the main fortifications of Singapore island" after penetrating deep into British positions.

Bloodily and gallantly, the outnumbered defenders of Singapore executed a pledge Jan. 27 by Prime Minister Churchill that the battle "will be fought to the last inch."

A note demanding surrender, dropped yesterday by a Japanese warplane, was ignored by the garrison commander, Lieut. Gen. A. E. Percival. He acknowledged, however, that his men were being driven slowly back on the western side of the island.

"The enemy's advance has been assisted by tanks and considerable bomber and fighter support," said the communique.

Japanese imperial headquarters said the invaders had won "complete mastery over the main defense fortifications" and were mopping up around the water reservoir on the central part of the island.

London authorities were grimly prepared for loss of the $400,000,000 Asiatic bastion. Holding off of the invasion army until withdrawal of women and children was completed was apparently one aim of the defense forces.

In Sydney, Australia, CBS reporter Cecil Brown said Singapore "probably will be in Japanese hands in the next 24 to 72 hours." He reiterated charges that caused him to be barred from the air in Singapore one month ago—charges that the British were complacent and ill-prepared for the Malayan fight.

Japanese hurdling of the lower Salween river in a drive against Burma's defenders to Martaban, 80 miles by air from the city of Rangoon and the rising threat against all the Netherlands East Indies added to the gravity of the United Nations' position.

The Dutch added two Japanese Cruisers, a destroyer and a submarine to their list of sunken vessels. These were officially reported to have been destroyed in a previously announced engagement off Amboina island in which only one Japanese cruiser had been claimed.

United States army contingents were sent to additional Dutch territory in the western hemisphere, reinforcing Netherlands units which have been guarding oil refinery centers on the island of Curacao in the Caribbean 50 miles off the Venezuelan coasts.

Battle Grows Tense In Martaban Area

RANGOON, Burma —(U.P.)— Empire defenders fought in a battle of mounting intensity today against a Japanese offensive driving northwestward from Martaban toward the Burma road, and blasted with artillery at a Japanese pincer effort to cross the Salween river in the north.

The "real battle of Burma" was underway, with the invaders established on the west shore of the lower Salween, at Martaban, and smashing with increasing forces in efforts to bridge the upper river at Paan, 30 miles north of Martaban.

The apparent Japanese strategy was to close a pincers first on Thaton, a key railroad center 28 miles northwest of Martaban, and then drive directly for the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad portion of the Burma road only 70 miles from Thaton.

The loss of Martaban was acknowledged yesterday. It was the first Japanese break-through in force west of the Salween.

British Tanks Aid Defense of Moscow

LONDON — (INS) — British tanks have played a big part in the defense of Moscow, Lord Beaverbrook, new minister of production, told the house of lords today.

In a general statement on war production, he said:

"In 1941 we sent out of the country 9,781 aircraft and brought in only 2,134.

"We sent abroad about 3,000 tanks and imported only 200.

"British tanks played a large part in the defense of Moscow."

Japs Slowed Down In Batan Attack

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Stubborn resistance of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops and an increasing scarcity of food supplies, due to the Japanese harsh treatment of Filipino farmers, today slowed down the invaders' preparations for an attempt to deliver a "knockout" blow in Batan.

A war department communique announced that the Japanese, slowly extending their hold over other parts of the sprawling Philippine archipelago, have occupied the small island of Masbate, lying between Luzon and Mindanao and north of Cebu.

On the Batan peninsula battle-front, where MacArthur's American and Filipino troops are awaiting the unleashing of an all-out enemy assault aimed at driving them from the Luzon mainland, an ominous lull settled over the jungle and mountain fighting lines.

But MacArthur again warned, in his report to the war department, that the respite may be short-lived.

Parliament Hits Conduct of War

LONDON—(U.P.)—A parliamentary revolt against the government's conduct of the war—particularly at Singapore—flared today in the Liberal Nationalist party.

The Liberal Nationalists are part of the coalition supporting Prime Minister Winston Churchill's cabinet.

Three prominent members, Edgar L. Granville, Sir John Henry Morris-Jones, and Leslie Hore-Belisha, former war secretary and frequent critic of British war policies tendered their formal resignation from the party.

It was the first major parliamentary flare-up of the summering unrest and dissatisfaction growing out of Britain's serious setbacks in the Far East.

Granville and Morris-Jones joined in a letter to Ernest Brown, leader of the Liberal Nationalist party, asserting that "for some time we have been convinced that something more than the present policy and present government are necessary to win the war."

As Chamber of Commerce Marked Its Thirtieth Year

Marking its 30th year since organization, Mansfield's Chamber of Commerce held its annual banquet at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night, with 350 in attendance. 'All Must Have Confidence,' Adams Says In C. of C. Address business in the war effort, he said that the naming of Donald M. Nelson as head of the War Production board was the direct result of healthy criticism of the administration.

"I am a congenital conservative!" Adams declared, "but I have confidence in our leaders. This is a time when we all must have such confidence."

"We are aligned with the weak nations of the world. We were physically unprepared for this war and we were enjoying a false standard of living because we had not been carrying an armed house on our backs. We are an unarmed nation.

"Macauley, the historian, once said our democracy was all sail and no anchor. We believe he was wrong. This war is the test of that premise."

Adams said this is not a time for partisan criticism but that it is the time for the kind of criticism that gave the United States the kind of freedom we are now fighting to retain.

Robert Remy, president of the chamber, introduced Adams and prior to the principal talk of the evening he presented a number of representatives of the city's leading industries who pictured Mansfield's place in the war effort.

C. L. Van Derau, works manager of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, said the city faces the most serious labor shortage in its history.

"We now have a half billion dollars worth of defense orders," he said. "In the past year and a half we have produced another half billion dollars worth of defense equipment. Many men have left to join the armed services; we can expect at least 2,500 more to go; yet our industry alone will be adding as high as 600 men a month for production on war orders by the end of this year and other industries will be hiring men, too, in ratio to their size."

A. L. Allen, speaking for J. M. Hill, president of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, said that 85 per cent of the men now employed at the steel mill are working on war materials and that four of the company's six furnaces are now in operation. "All of the furnaces will be in operation within a year if we can get the scrap metal," he said.

George Draffan, vice president of the Ohio Brass company, reported that his firm is working exclusively on war products with priority ratings of A-10 to A-1 and that it is ahead of schedule on production.

Louis Hartman, vice president of the Hartman Electric company, spoke for the small manufacturers. He said that the war had demonstrated the importance of factories which could adjust production to the making a small number of vital war items. Of the 2200 men working in Mansfield's small industries, 62 per cent are employed on war contracts, Hartman revealed.

William Mabee, production manager of the Tappan Stove company, said his firm was working on a special order for galley equipment for navy flying boats and that it would soon be in production on similar items for army patrol bombers and for mosquito boats. He said Tappan engineers had designed the equipment after learning the government's needs.

George W. Stephens, president of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, said that lands now under conquest by the Japanese supply half the source of America's rubber supply.

Among other guests introduced by Remy were Louis Bromfield, Mansfield author, John G. Routzon, secretary-treasurer of the C. of C., and O. C. McCormick, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The toll of ships officially announced as sunk or attacked off the United States and Canada thus far in the war stood today at 25, after the navy reported the 6,182-ton Standard Oil tanker W. L. Steed was sent to the bottom by an enemy submarine off New Jersey Feb. 2.

The announcement of the W. L. Steed's fate was made yesterday with the arrival of three survivors, who had been picked up semi-conscious after driving for two icy days in an open boat. No word has come from the remainder of the crew of 38. Three of the tanker's four lifeboats still are missing.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1942.

"When all is said and done"—less need be said and more done.

Maybe taking those hitching rails away from the Franklin avenue side of the courthouse was premature, after all.

While other Ohio cities are having their clean-ups of gambling operations, Mansfield goes along placidly under the administration formula—"Gambling shouldn't be visible from the street."

Battling for Lincoln's Principles

YEAR AFTER YEAR the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln is made an occasion for recalling the era of his presidency and paying tribute to the memory of a great American who typified the opportunities of democracy by rising from an humble place to a position of leadership in one of the nation's crises.

It is interesting, but not particularly enlightening, to consider what Lincoln would think, and do, under present national and world conditions. His clear mind and keen insight would undoubtedly function as efficiently today as in his own time and he would probably consider the principles at stake in this world crisis not unlike those of the national crisis he was called upon to face.

It should be remembered that the United States of America, at the time Lincoln entered the presidency, had a total population little above 31,000,000—or more than 100,000,000 short of present figures, and that the country was largely agricultural rather than industrial.

Pondering the present struggle between the United Nations and the Axis powers, would not Lincoln again find that the heart of today's problem is a conflict between human freedom and slavery—not for a part of the people of one nation, but for the entire world? A struggle of the strong to enslave nations now free, or that had been free? And a still more deadly effort to enslave the minds and souls of people everywhere, even within the conquering nations themselves, for the benefit of brutal masters regarding themselves as super-men?

Would he see a vast effort to destroy Christianity and other humane religions? To kill culture? To destroy beauty and its free creation as we have known it in music, painting, poetry and other fine arts? To pervert science, using it not to ease human life, but as the master of life?

Would he not throw all his energies into saving America and the world from all this?

When National Anthem Is Played

UNCERTAINTY as to proper procedure, rather than disrespect or lack of patriotism, seems to account for failure of many people in motion picture audiences to rise while the Star Spangled Banner is being played.

In practically every other public gathering there is an immediate response from the audience and in an instant everyone is standing, with many joining in singing the national anthem—at least through the first verse.

Changing audiences during the progress of picture shows, and lack of a definite place in the program, may partially explain why more people do not stand quietly and respectfully while the Star Spangled Banner is being played, instead of remaining seated, leaving the theater or moving through the aisles to find seats.

So few formalities are designed as evidences of patriotism in this country that it seems to involve no undue hardship to stand during every rendition of the Star Spangled Banner, or for men to remove hats when the American flag is passing in a parade.

Promise Oil To Meet All Needs

THE LACK of foresight which quickly resulted in rubber and sugar shortages was fortunately escaped by the oil industry, which began preparing for war long in advance of Japan's attacks in the Pacific. Today it is devoting its full energies and resources to the job of meeting the combined military and civilian needs of the country. According to The Lamp, a publication of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, "The fortunate location of the nation's producing areas, in California and the Gulf Coast, in mid-continental states and the Caribbean, makes possible the uninterrupted flow of petroleum products wherever needed—whether in the Pacific or on the west coast, in the middle west or the southwest, on the Atlantic seaboard or ocean, to our Allies in Europe or to the friendly nations to the south."

Oil must perform many a task in war-time. Most obvious is that of keeping lubricants, engine fuels and furnace oils flowing out to the four corners of the country. In addition, the industry has been called upon to increase its present production of 100 octane gasoline three times, to greatly increase the production of tuluene, which is a basic material in the manufacture of TNT, and to produce the principal raw materials for production of the great quantities of synthetic rubber now planned. The industry is confident of its ability to meet the demand.

Coveted Island In Dangerous Spot

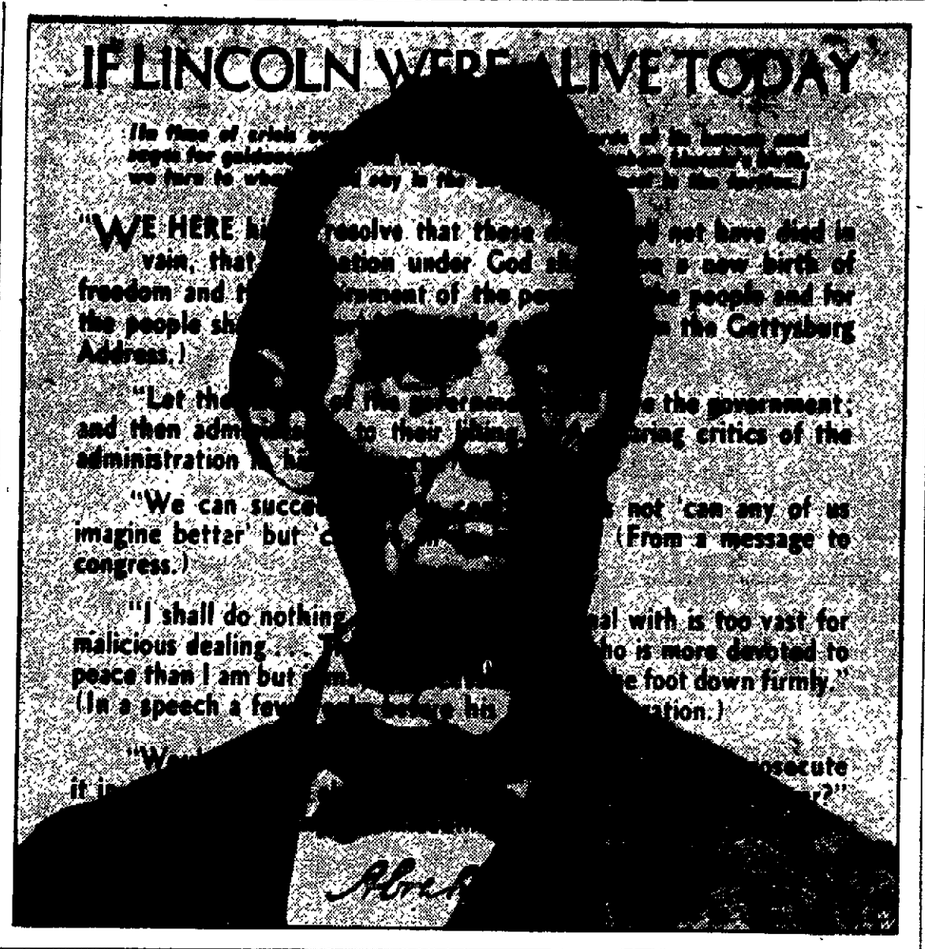
ONE WAY to make news is to stay out of it. The island of Amboina in the Dutch East Indies has been suspiciously quiet lately, so that people think the Japanese are engaged in some new deviltry.

If Amboina does get into history it will not be for the first time. Noted for its cloves and famed as one of what old-time travellers used to call the Spice Islands, it was been coveted by Portuguese, Dutch and British. In 1623 the Dutch expelled the British so vigorously and with so much cruelty that the incident has come down in history as "the Amboina massacre." The British regained it for a time during the Napoleonic days, but the Dutch have it now—or had it, when last reported.

Unpromising Missionary Job

THERE has been some talk of bringing German and Italian war prisoners from England to America to teach them democracy. Except for Italians, who mostly take rather readily to our free way of life, the chances of reconstruction are not bright. Information from Canada, which has many Nazi prisoners, represents the conquered supermen as so intractable and resistant to free ideals that they can't learn anything.

It may be different, though, if Russia shoves Hitler's world-conquerors back into Germany. Ideology doesn't do so well when its prophets are discredited.



Identity Cards May Come Soon

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

THE WAR undoubtedly is responsible for current demands that every adult human male in the United States be required to carry an identification card with him at all times and show it whenever called on to do so by some properly authorized official.

The plan was more or less urged in congress several years ago. I think it was suggested originally by Chief J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who has advocated universal fingerprinting for a long time.

Finally, several national lawmakers developed a favorable interest in the notion and tried to get it adopted.

No exciting emergency prevailed just then, however, to stimulate the campaign and presently it petered out.

Today, though, acceptance of the system looks like a possibility. It's talked of on Capitol Hill, by functionaries in the government's various executive setups and a good bit by the press and general public. Recently a straw poll was taken on the subject and the scheme scored a sizable majority.

The principal objection's based on the ground that such regimentation would be un-American. If it were proposed solely for application in the cases of unnaturalized foreigners, I don't believe there'd be any opposition to it whatever, but quite a few natives and Americans-by-adoption evidently sense a totalitarian tendency in compulsory registration of all of 'em—not merely as military conscription eligibles, but on general principles, regardless of age and everything else.

Makes Spotting Easier.

Of course, the pro-identificationists' argument is that an enemy agent's difficult to spot if no credentials are needed by anybody. If one of 'em's challenged, he naturally says he's an American. And maybe he is, there probably are renegade natives whom hostile governments can suborn.

Even an unnaturalized German or Italian may be hard to make sure of, if he speaks good United States. A Jap's more conspicuous, but he, too, can say that he was born here and is a loyal citizen. I know two or three of 'em who, I verily believe, could say it truthfully. But how sort them out, with the means lacking to make 'em certify themselves?

Now, the fact is that a method exists by which an actual DEMAND can be created for identification cards.

A long while ago I lived for six years in the Argentine republic.

There, as in various other Latin-American countries, the police consider it one of their duties, not to compel, but to enable either a native or an alien resident to identify himself.

They issue to him, if he applies for it, and is O. K., a "cedula de identidad," or "ticket of identity."

He doesn't have to have it, but he wants one.

Suppose he goes into a strange bank, with a check to cash but nobody to underwrite his signature. Presenting that check at the teller's window, he submits also his cedula de identidad, and that settles it. If his check's drawn on a solvent account, his title to his dough's established, and the teller forks it over, with only a preliminary glance at the cedula.

There are plenty of other cases in which easy identification is an immense convenience and that cedula invariably does the business.

How You Get It.

Now, how do you go about getting one?

Well, you call at police headquarters. You give 'em all the information they ask for. They check up on it. Having verified it, they hand your cedula over to you.

It's a little leather-covered folder, adapted to fit into a vest pocket.

It contains your photograph, your signature, your right thumbprint and a few details as to your birth place and date and your occupation. The bank teller compares your signature on the check with your signature in the cedula, takes a squint at your mug, in comparison with the cedula picture, probably doesn't bother about a thumbprint, and forthwith coughs up your specified number of pesos and centavos.

There's only one joker involved.

When you want a cedula you may want it in a hurry, and the police can, if they choose, take two or three weeks to check up on you. But if you slip some influential copper the equivalent of approximately a $5-bill, he'll so speed up the program, that your cedula will be delivered inside 24 hours. It's graft, of a certain sort, which I don't call commendable, but the point is that nearly all cedula-seekers fall for it, indicating that the system isn't resented; it's willingly paid for.

Lincoln's Voice Down the Ages

PRESIDENT LINCOLN, affectionately called "Father Abraham" by the rank and file of his soldiers, always spoke to them in a spirit of comradeship when he visited their camps. His speeches and writings of eighty years ago seem like messages to the indomitable men of our Army and the people of America today.

On a sultry August day, 1864, addressing the 166th Ohio Regiment, he declared: "I always feel inclined, when I happen to say anything to soldiers, to impress upon them the importance of success in this contest. It is not merely for today but for all time to come that we should perpetuate for our children's children that great and free government which we have enjoyed all our lives. . . . Still, let us not be over sanguine of a speedy, final triumph. Let us be quite sober. Let us diligently apply the means, never doubting that a just God, in His own good time, will give us the rightful result."

He denied no citizen the right to express an opposing opinion, but he called upon all factions to stand up for the country's defenders. Answering serenaders from the White House portico November 10, 1864, he said: "May I ask those who have not differed with me, to join with me in this same spirit towards those who have? And now let me close by asking three hearty cheers for our brave soldiers and seamen, and their gallant and skilful commanders."

Lincoln did not possess the polish of formal society, but no president has paid a more graceful compliment to the work of women in war time. In an address March 18, 1864, he praised their efforts: "I am not accustomed to the language of eulogy. I have never studied the art of paying compliments to women. But I must say, that if all that has been said by orators and poets since the creation of the world in praise of women were applied to the women of America, it would not do them justice for their conduct during this war. I will close my saying, God bless the women of America!"

How Lincoln would deal with isolationists and agitators is hinted in the following quotation from Carl Sandburg's biography, "The War Years:"

"Pointing to the death penalty as a requisite of military organization, he (President Lincoln) inquired: 'Must I shoot a simple-minded soldier who deserts, while I must not touch a hair of a wily agitator who induces him to desert? This is none the less injurious when effected by getting a father, or brother or friend into a public meeting, and there working upon his feelings till he is persuaded to write the soldier boy that he is fighting in a bad cause, for a wicked administration of a contemptible government, too weak to arrest and punish him if he shall desert. I think that, in such a case, to silence the agitator and save the boy is not only constitutional, but withal a great mercy'."

Timely Editorial

Mrs. Roosevelt's Appointments.

It isn't easy or pleasant to speak critically of the war activities of the wife of the president of the United States, especially when she is so obviously sincere and idealistic as is Mrs. Roosevelt. But her qualities of deep sympathetic personal interest in the people who attract her, and her sentimental attitude toward them, are obstacles to the judicious administration of the public office she holds. In fact, she is really disqualified by her position as the president's wife from holding office under her husband, because her word necessarily carries an authority beyond that of an ordinary citizen in her position.

Doubtless Mrs. Roosevelt herself is surprised by the storm that has been aroused in Washington by the character of her personal appointments to some of the better salaried positions. She undoubtedly believes her selections are of the highest class. The wide-spread reaction against them should convince her that by temperament she is not qualified to make objective appointments and that she could better serve the cause she has at heart in her private capacity of first lady rather than in public office.—Kansas City Star.

TODAY IN HISTORY

In June, 1732, James Edward Oglethorpe and nineteen associates obtained a charter as trustees for the establishment of a colony in America. It was founded as a refuge for poor debtors from England. Oglethorpe landed at Charleston in January of the following year and began negotiations with the Indians for a tract of land at the mouth of the Savannah river. On Feb. 12, 1733, the party landed at Savannah. The anniversary of the landing is observed as Georgia day by the state which Oglethorpe founded.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Labor Chiefs Protest Opposition Of Henderson to Wage Increases

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The president's first session with the joint AFL-CIO committee was very cordial, and also very frank on the part of the labor chiefs.

They spoke their minds plainly about two of the president's ace lieutenants—Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Dr. I. Lubin, head of the bureau of labor statistics.

Neither official was criticized personally. In fact, the laborites emphasized that they held Henderson and Lubin in high esteem as able and sincere executives. But no punches were pulled in assailing their policies.

The laborites' complaint against both revolved around the moot question of the cost of living.

Henderson was criticized because of opposition to increased wages. Lubin was harpooned on the ground that cost of living figures issued by his bureau were too low.

The president produced a letter from Leon Henderson voicing strong misgivings about the latest wage demands of CIO President Phil Murray's steel workers.

In effect, Henderson took the position that the increase was unwarranted. He said that there will be $85,000,000,000 worth of consumer buying power this year, but only $60,000,000,000 worth of consumer goods. Henderson also argued that there are many categories of workers who cannot hope for an increase in pay; so that if one group of workers have more to spend they will be able to buy a larger share of available goods than the others.

Leon also contended that raising workers' pay because an industry was making big war profits was not the sound solution of that problem. The way to deal with that, he told Roosevelt, is either to put a fixed ceiling on profits or to tax them to the bone.

Anti-Labor Statistics.

PHIL MURRAY led the anvil chorus against Henderson. He hotly denied that the steel workers were adequately paid; said that the steadily rising cost of living had wiped out their last wage gain; that a new increase was necessary to equalize matters.

This contention brought the CIO chief to Lubin's report of the bureau of labor statistics.

It's figures showed an over-all increase in the cost of living of 10 per cent. Murray flatly challenged this as inaccurate.

"My economists," he told Roosevelt, "tell me that the increase is 23 per cent and not 10 per cent. And I have just as good experts as any in that bureau."

"Yes," chimed in George Meany, bulky AFL secretary-treasurer. "The way that bureau is acting, it ought to be called the bureau of anti-labor statistics."

After listening silently to the barrage of complaints, the president promised to look into them, and discuss them at the next meeting of the group two weeks hence.

Note:—Labor Secretary Frances Perkins was burned up because she was not invited to the pow-wow, while War Labor Chief Sidney Hillman was. Also, the labor leaders made it clear to Roosevelt that they preferredf her continued absence by telling him that they wanted an independent war labor administration. Roosevelt asked them to submit a plan for consideration at their next meeting.

Repeal Lewis.

ANOTHER subject frankly discussed was John L. Lewis. All hands present made no secret of their glee at the way the power-hungry miner chief's scheme for a blitz peace had been upset.

The laborites told Roosevelt about Lewis' newest activity, organizing dairy farmers as members of the United Mine Workers. They said it was now certain that Lewis had cooked up his peace scheme in a secret deal with William Hutcheson, violently anti-New Deal head of the AFL carpenters.

"Mr. President," laughed R. J. Thomas, president of the powerful CIO Auto Workers, "I think the time has come, when John L. Lewis is ripe for repeal."

"I think you are right, Bob," grinned Roosevelt, "and a motion to recommit him in in order."

"If Lewis is going in for organizing farmers," added Julius Emspack, secretary of the CIO Electrical and Radio Workers, "we ought to turn him over to Ed O'Neil (head of the Farm Bureau Federation). I understand that Ed doesn't like raiders."

Note—Last week, when Hutcheson addressed an anniversary meeting of a big carpenter local in Philadelphia, he was loudly booed when he made a pass at the president for torpedoing Lewis' peace scheme. Before Hutcheson finished his speech, more than 1,000 of the carpenters and their wives had walked out on him.

Philippine Commissioner.

THE resident commissioner of the Philippines, who has a seat in the U. S. congress and draws $10,000 a year like other congressmen, is spending most of his time these days trying to build up the morale of his own people, on the other side of the world.

The Honorable Joaquin "Mike") Elizalde was best known for his motor cars and his taste for sports when he came to Washington in 1938. But now he is running an office in the Capitol, an office on Massachusetts avenue, and popping in and out of the house radio room every day.

Elizalde makes a daily recording in the nature of a pep talk for the Philippine people, which is sent by airmail from Washington to San Francisco. There it is turned over to the Donovan office for an immediate short-wave broadcast to the Far East.

Elizalde keeps hammering home the fact that, after nine weeks of fighting, two-thirds of the Philippines remain unoccupied by the enemy.

Note:—The Elizalde family is one of the richest in the islands. When Manila was bombarded the commissioner lost three blocks of sugar warehouses in one day.

Merry-Go-Round.

THE Donovan office is sending a series of "take-heart" short-wave broadcasts to the German-dominated countries of Europe—including Italy . . . Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah, who has traveled in the Far East, is sponsoring a number of Donovan broadcasts to Japan and China. . . . One is entitled "Victory For China," and another, "Japan vs. Japan."

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Capital in war-time:

You can't prove it, but you can bet your last dollar of folding money that it's true. When the government evacuated Manila, millions of dollars in paper money went up in smoke.

The treasury's official announcement was to the effect that all government assets in the Philippine capital had been "removed or destroyed." The story is that paper money, in bales, millions of dollars of it, went up in flames. The enemy can't spend ashes or even sell them in the Black Mart. The treasury, as long as it knows the numbers of the destroyed bills, can't lose a penny.

LOOK out soon for a national organization of military police, much on the same lines as the "home guards" of World War I.

They will guard all plants producing war materials, inside and out. They may have a distinctive uniform similar to the "blues" worn by the Home Guards. They will be under direct command of Maj. Gen. Allen W. Gullion, provost marshal general of the United States Army. They may be recruited from over-age men or those who fail to measure up to full physical requirements in the new draft.

The details aren't complete, but it may effect a million or more registrants in the 1942 draft and consequently is almost as big a "story" as the first selective service law.

AMONG the really perturbed people in the District of Columbia are those who manipulate the telephones. In about a year, the telephone company has added 45,000-plus subscribers, to reach a total close to 320,000.

But that's just the beginning of the story. There is now an average of more than a million and a half calls per day; a good quarter of a million more daily than in the biggest months on record. What's the result? A scream from the subscribers that the service is terrible.

If you have a call coming in from Washington bide your time. Hours can elapse before an operator can get a wire. The payoff is that those same hours elapse when War Production Board officials are trying to get their calls through. Washington is so cluttered up with Big Shots that the telephone company hasn't any way of telling who's who—unless the call comes from the White House. Calls from there have priority Triple-A. Donald Nelson of the WPB, gets through double-quick, too. And of course there's no delay on the army and navy calls, from Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary Knox down.

A Farmer's Diary

Evening Story Time

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY GRANDFATHER told me Bible stories before I was of school age. My wife's grandmother did the same for her. No credit is due us then, if we pass along to our own lively youngsters what looms large in the background of our own childhood. We are simply following good American tradition. So has all literature been handed on—the best of it—by word of mouth.

I found, at the public library, an illustrated book that tells the Bible stories in words children can understand. I brought it home and when the boys were nearly ready for bed, we looked at it together. I read them the majestic story of creation—"In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth . . ." They were interested. Not until we had finished the "seventh day" would they let me stop, and then only on promise to continue tomorrow night.

Recalling at random, we have had perhaps a dozen stories, since then. We read of Esau, red, hairy man of the out-of-doors, whose honest appetite caused him to bargain away his birthright to his wily brother.

We followed Samson of the great physique and the unshorn hair—saw him kill the lion with his hands and tie the foxes' tails together with firebrands between; we saw him betrayed by a woman, with shorn head, and pitifully blinded, turning the grinding mill like an ox until when his strength returned he pulled down the temple with a climactic crash.

We heard about Noah, the slow, tireless builder who sailed the ark. We saw Lot flee from Sodom and Gomorrah, leaving the one who looked back, a pillar of salt by the road. We spent several evenings with Joseph and his brothers—that story a favorite. We saw baby Moses grow into the great leader who guided his people through the Egyptian plagues, but who still missed entering the Promised Land.

We admired Ruth and Naomi, and were glad for Boaz, the kind farmer, whose generosity was so beautifully rewarded. We learned about Job, about Daniel and Belshazzer's feast, with the "writing on the wall."

All these are stories for any child of any age—like most good things, they grow more meaningful with the years. They have action, sweep and majesty for all lovers of literature.

Of all the group who listened as I read, I know the one who is most happily satisfied. It is myself. What a privilege it is to give our children the Bible as their rightful heritage! After they have gone to bed, I often sit, moved and humble, just looking ahead—and hoping.

We Used To Do Pretty Well
Without Aluminum

Some of the very tastiest food ever prepared came to the admiring attention of American households . . . long before aluminum was heard of.

Grandma . . . and your own mother, did quite well around the kitchen and were very pleased with the latest in graniteware, cast iron, copper, pewter and tin.

There were probably times in our earlier and harder days . . . before we heard of vitamins, oven regulators and caloric intake when cast iron was gathered up in the interests of defense.

Cast iron was recast into cannon balls and grapeshot . . . and then salvaged and recast into teakettles and frying pans . . . when the war was over.

Shucks, folks . . . who gives a whoop if aluminum gets scarcer and scarcer in kitchens . . . if it goes to serve a purpose of greater import?

Every one of our liberty-loving ancestors would snicker . . . if they did not sneer outright at our rigorous self-denial efforts. They knew what freedom meant . . . and that no price was too great to pay for it.

We still have plenty of aluminum on our shelves . . . but if we can't get any more for a while . . . what of it? No one in America will be under-fed . . . not even if we have to revert to clay pots and open fires.

Machinists' tools are a little harder to get, galvanized materials, certain types of baskets . . . but is that privation? Is it anything to deplore?

We have thousands of every-day household items known as hardware . . . all designed for saving work and time around the house . . . this national emergency touches us all too lightly . . . Grandma would say if she heard any complaints from her granddaughters.

SUPER FARMING LINKS MACHINE AND ECONOMY

Model Course Stresses the Most Profitable Operation.

(By United Press)

DEARBORN, Mich. — On 100 acres just outside this suburb of industrialized Detroit, 29 young men are learning the economic advantages of applying to farming the mechanization which is so important to profitable operation of industry.

The group came here early in May from farms in 29 districts where they were valedictorians in an agricultural extension course conducted by the National Farm Youth Foundation among some 10,000 future American farmers.

They are here at the expense of the foundation which is sponsored by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corp., a Ford affiliate, and are being paid $150 a month until their year of advanced training ends.

Without a college education, they are getting training that might be denied them otherwise.

On the 100 acres are reproduced all the characteristics which typify the nation. The blacklands of Texas, the arid stretches of western Kansas, the variable cotton lands of the deep South, the rugged terrain of New England are all represented.

Thus, every student finds his home acres duplicated and learn to deal with the problems that stumped him back home.

The one idea of the project is to farm mechanically. The boys virtually live on machinery. From the time they get up until they call it a day they are either riding a tractor or taking apart some piece of machinery and putting it together again.

And several nights a week when their day's work in the fields is ended they meet in classrooms to discuss the theoretical aspects of machine farming.

Says the farm's director, Harry Ferguson:

"We are endeavoring to make them see that just as modern machinery has revolutionized industry, so can it revolutionize farming."

A patriotic motive influenced some of the boys to come to the farm. A number of them say that although they have not been called to army camps, still they are doing their bit for national defense. They are learning how to increase farm production at lower costs.

With the top-ranking award winners in the foundation's extension course were as many others who won second place awards. They are receiving $125 a month, plus traveling expenses for a year as they receive further training in their home districts — where they know agriculture best.

The foundation is enrolling members for another extension course, at the end of which awards will be issued again.

Membership is free. There are only three requirements: Members must be 17 to 26 years old, must live on a farm and can receive no pay from sales work.

NEW TREATMENT

Radioactivity Suggests Cure For Leukemia.

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—A possible cure for leukemia and other blood stream diseases by means of atom-smashed phosphorus has been suggested by a University of Pennsylvania scientist.

Dr Eugene Pendergrass demonstrated the treatment before a university group with the aid of a Geiger counter, a device usually utilized only in counting cosmic rays.

As he ran the counter over the body of a victim of leukemia, little clicking sounds were registered in the room. According to the scientist, those sounds meant that the device had detected white corpuscle concentrations and was combatting them with radioactivity.

Dr. Pendergrass explained that basis for the treatment, not yet ready for general use, was the breaking down of phosphorus by means of a cyclotron. When bombarded by atoms shot at a very high rate of speed, phosphorus gives off rays similar to radium.

Savannah, founded by General Oglethorpe in 1733, was the first settlement in Georgia.

SUPER FARMING LINKS MACHINE AND ECONOMY

Model Course Stresses the Most Profitable Operation.

(By United Press)

DEARBORN, Mich.—On 100 acres just outside this suburb of industrialized Detroit, 29 young men are learning the economic advantages of applying to farming the mechanization which is so important to profitable operation of industry.

The group came here early in May from farms in 29 districts where they were valedictorians in an agricultural extension course conducted by the National Farm Youth Foundation among some 10,000 future American farmers.

They are here at the expense of the foundation which is sponsored by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corp., a Ford affiliate, and are being paid $150 a month until their year of advanced training ends.

Without a college education, they are getting training that might be denied them otherwise.

On the 100 acres are reproduced all the characteristics which typify the nation. The blacklands of Texas, the arid stretches of western Kansas, the variable cotton lands of the deep South, the rugged terrain of New England are all represented.

Thus, every student finds his home acres duplicated and learn to deal with the problems that stumped him back home.

The one idea of the project is to farm mechanically. The boys virtually live on machinery. From the time they get up until they call it a day they are either riding a tractor or taking apart some piece of machinery and putting it together again.

And several nights a week when their day's work in the fields is ended they meet in classrooms to discuss the theoretical aspects of machine farming.

Says the farm's director, Harry Ferguson:

"We are endeavoring to make them see that just as modern machinery has revolutionized industry, so can it revolutionize farming."

A patriotic motive influenced some of the boys to come to the farm. A number of them say that although they have not been called to army camps, still they are doing their bit for national defense. They are learning how to increase farm production at lower costs.

With the top-ranking award winners in the foundation's extension course were as many others who won second place awards. They are receiving $125 a month, plus traveling expenses for a year as they receive further training in their home districts—where they know agriculture best.

The foundation is enrolling members for another extension course, at the end of which awards will be issued again.

Membership is free. There are only three requirements: Members must be 17 to 26 years old, must live on a farm and can receive no pay from sales work.

NEW TREATMENT

Radioactivity Suggests Cure For Leukemia.

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—A possible cure for leukemia and other blood stream diseases by means of atom-smashed phosphorus has been suggested by a University of Pennsylvania scientist.

Dr Eugene Pendergrass demonstrated the treatment before a university group with the aid of a Geiger counter, a device usually utilized only in counting cosmic rays.

As he ran the counter over the body of a victim of leukemia, little clicking sounds were registered in the room. According to the scientist, these sounds meant that the device had detected white corpuscle concentrations and was combatting them with radioactivity.

Dr. Pendergrass explained that basis for the treatment, not yet ready for general use, was the breaking down of phosphorus by means of a cyclotron. When bombarded by atoms shot at a very high rate of speed, phosphorus gives off rays similar to radium.

Savannah, founded by General Oglethorpe in 1733, was the first settlement in Georgia.

Mrs. J. H. Mollenkop presented a reading, "The Answer to Prayer." There was a white elephant exchange and a social hour was enjoyed. Valentine decorations were used when refreshments were served. Next meeting will be held March 10 at the home of Mrs. Sherman, 114 Arthur avenue.

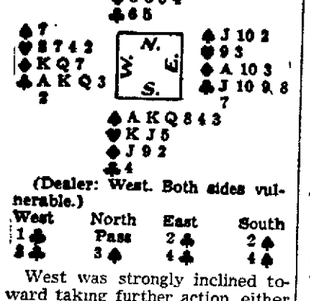
"The Authority on Authorities"

HIGH OR LOW RELATIVE

"WHEN YOU play a sevenspot or higher on a trick, it indicates a desire for another lead of that suit, and if you play a lower card, it means you want your partner to shift." How painfully incorrect that advice is, yet you often hear fair average players pass it out that way to neophytes. Properly stated, it is thus: "If the card played can be read as your partner's lowest, it means one thing, whereas if it is clearly higher than his lowest, it means the other."



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♠
3 ♣	3 ♠	4 ♣	4 ♠

West was strongly inclined toward taking further action, either doubling the 4-Spades or going on to 5-Clubs. The latter contract can be beaten quickly with a trick in spades and two in hearts, and it is just as well West did not double, as he bungled the defense and enabled South to make his contract. East felt a little as if West's pass was a forcing pass, calling upon him to double, but he knew his partner as a doubtful defensive player, so refrained from taking a crack at the 4-Spades.

Making the natural lead of the club K, West casually watched the fall of the cards on it. When he saw East come in with the 7, he repeated the suit. South, of course, ruffed, dropped the trumps in three rounds, ran four hearts for the discard of a diamond and later gave up two diamond tricks, making his contract.

Why did West watch only for the size of his partner's card on that first trick? If he had looked also at the 4 player by the declarer, then taken a glance at his own hand and dummy, he would have seen that East could not possibly have had any lower club The natural switch then to diamonds would have beaten the contract. Just as a 3 can be an encouraging card, when the 2 may be read as also held, so a 9 even can be discouraging if it can be read as the lowest held. It is all relative, or comparative.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

It all fitted in. I told myself as I scanned again the painted square which had come to Olina in the mail.

The note betrayed the subservient attitude to Olina which was that of the old man and his wife, who had hidden her. She was his princess by divine right, and he was sworn to serve her. Even though her mother approved of her appearing in public as a harpist, he could not reconcile his soul to it. He probably was dreaming in his dotage, for he was old, of sometime being instrumental in restoring her to her royal heritage.

I went over the picture again, but could see nothing else significant in it. Then I turned my attention to the border around it.

It had no beginning and no end, but ran around all the edges, and was picked out with great detail.

Notes Of a Song.

It represented the treble staff of music, and there were notes, eighth, quarter and half, arranged as if they were the notes of a song.

I know enough of music so that I realized at once there was something extremely queer about those notes. They didn't follow any recognized pattern at all. But I had no time to figure out what was the trouble with them, for Steve had finished copying the note.

"Did you say I could copy the picture, too?" he asked.

"Later," I said promptly, for I had no intention of letting the picture as it was get into Steve Redfield's hands for any length of time. "We'll give you a glimpse of it now, and when she has a few moments Olina will copy it for you, I know."

"I'd love to," she said cordially.

"That will be fine," he said and held out his hand for the painting. He scanned it critically, then handed it back with a shrug of his shoulders.

"I'm inclined to agree with what you said would be Mary's comment," he said.

"I sure would like a copy of it, anyway," he went on, "but I'd like to give you a good time in repayment for it. How about dining with me tonight at the ——?" He named one of the most expensive and glamorous restaurants.

"Oh, I'd love to," Olina said again, this time with apparently genuine regret in her voice, "but I've explained to you about my mother's attitude before."

Madge Declines.

"I didn't expect you'd go alone with me," he said, in a tone that conveyed his opinion of the absolute foolishness of her attitude. "But I was hoping Mrs. Graham might go with us."

"Absolutely impossible tonight," I said crisply, "or for any other night this week. Later on I should love to play chaperone for you."

"I'm so very sorry," Steve said dismally.

"I am too," Olina echoed playing up "I've never been inside of that restaurant. I think father and mama consider it undignified." She smiled a bit impishly. "But I'm really crazy to see it. I'm wondering—" she paused and looked at me, and I knew she was waiting for a cue from me.

"Yes,' I encouraged her. "You have an idea. I can see that."

Olina's Suggestion.

"I was wondering," she said, "if Mary might not like to go over there. I don't think she's ever seen the place either."

"That's a very good idea," I said. "But it won't be tonight. She's gone off with her husband for the afternoon and dinner. She won't be back until time to go to the theater tonight."

Olina considered for a second, and I knew she was waiting for another cue from me.

"You'll both see her at the theater tonight, won't you?" I asked.

"Oh, Yes," Olina answered. "Why can't we ask her about it then, Steve?"

Excellent auguries for quick, sudden, surprising and far reaching if not radical opportunities for putting over large scale operations or ambitions of great magnitude are found in this day's activities. The opening while dramatic and breathtaking should have firm foundations leading to cherished objectives, good fortunes and security, with many personal, social, domestic and affectional realizations and happiness these splendid gratifications should not be negated by quick temper or any excess.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the brink of a much desired although entirely unanticipated whirl of good fortune, suddenly arising like a whirlwind, with breathtaking and thrilling force, and into a long cherished security of place, position and influence, with all the concinnity for personal happiness in the domestic, social and affectional realm. Indeed the latter may be found at the core of all this felicity, prestuge and good fortune.

Remember Without Wanting + + +

CHAPTER I

IT WAS OCTOBER, 1938, and though many people in New York probably were being married today, it was also Phyllis Conover's wedding day, Judith was thinking as the taxi that was taking her home darted in and out of the snarling noonday traffic. She hoped Phyllis, who shared the apartment with her, was not impatient. Everything had been planned perfectly and Phyllis was to sleep late while she, Judith, reported to the office for a few hours work. The ceremony was scheduled for 4 o'clock, leaving ample time for the small bridal party to see the bride and bridegroom "off" on a West Indies cruise.

It was a young figure, slender and graceful and wearing a tailored black wool frock that sat in the taxi that cool October day in 1938. And it was a young face, alive, intelligent and glowing, that peered thoughtfully into the teeming streets. A black felt hat worn at a jaunty angle almost covered her dark hair, and the eyes that looked at the unceasing parade of faces, but did not actually see them were gray and darklashed, beneath natural, curving dark brows. It was a face to remember not merely for its warm young beauty, but more particularly for the girl who possessed it, the girl behind the face, a girl in conflict with herself. She was Judith Barth, 22 that autumn day, a fashion artist with the mark of success already upon her.

How did Phyllis feel now? How careless the word "love" was tossed about like a ball by people who only half-heartedly played the game! Phyllis and Ames' love had been so smooth and perfect, their meeting at a cocktail party, their "dates" becoming more and more frequent, their brief engagement. Simple and natural, the way it should be. Judith thought, but I want too much. I'm more complex than Phyllis. All my life I've demanded more as though I were a specially privileged person. It's the wrong way to be, always looking beyond the things that satisfy other people . . .

She was not to live alone after Phyllis left, for Emily Travers, who was secretary to an editor, was moving in next week. Emily, like Phyllis, was a friend of three years ago when living in a staid hotel for women had been a precarious hand-to-mouth existence livened by an occasional check from home meant for one, but always shared cheerfully by three. But it had been Judith and Phyllis who had rented the apartment. Phyllis gladly had relinquished her share for the things new and modern in the new apartment where she would live after her honeymoon. Emily would bring only her pretty, amiable honest self.

The taxi stopped before the brick apartment house and the doorman sprang to attention. Presently Judith was walking through the spacious lobby to her ground-floor apartment.

Disorder greeted her in the small foyer, the large living-room with its deep, comfortable, chintz-covered furniture and brown rug and rose-colored walls, and in the maple-furnished bedroom. Boxes from which last-minute purchases had been snatched—tissue paper, clothes hangers, Phyllis' new baggage, cigarets in every ash tray, Phyllis' bed still unmade, the blue broadloom rug sprinkled with powder. Phyllis was in the bathroom with the shower on in full force.

Passionately neat, but loathing the dull chores of housekeeping, she quickly took off her hat and gloves and proceded to clear the debris. She suppressed a smile as she thought of her mother who would have said, "If this is a sample of Phyllis' housekeeping, heaven help Ames." But yesterday Phyllis had ceased to be a mediocre fashion artist, a working girl who had to eat and sleep and play by the clock and today she would be a wife.

And how would Phyllis, charming but vague, fit into the pattern of Ames Preston's conventional life? How long the years that stretched ahead! How very long, those years. Had they thought of that? To Judith it seemed that Phyllis looked not beyond her tropical honeymoon as if marriage were to be confined to two glamorous weeks.

Finally Phyllis emerged from the bathroom, her lovely red head above the white turkish bathrobe, her large blue eyes wide with excitement, her small, rather pointed face shiny clean.

"Oh, I didn't hear you come in, Judith! I don't know whether I'm going or coming. This rush . . . You've made my bed. Thanks. What time is it? Shouldn't they come for my baggage? I thought my flowers would be here by now—"

"One thing at a time, please." Phyllis who was never on time, always expected everyone else to be.

"There's so much to thing about at the last minute . . . I'm going to smoke a cigaret. Sit down and have one with me." She sank in a chair and sighed as she looked at Judith who curled up on her own bed. "I feel as if I've cornered the market on happiness. Havana, Colon. What lovely-sounding names! And with Ames—at last! I wish I could give you some of my happiness, darling."

"You keep it. I'll find my own or stumble into it." My heart waits . . . But for whom, for what? It's as if my heart has always been waiting . . ."

"I hope so," Phyllis said breathlessly as she rested her head on the back of the chair. "You've been so wonderful to me, Judith, keeping me straight, lending me money—oh, all sorts of things. You're so efficient. But you have a family and I haven't. You can't call it a family when you've been passed from one relative to another and all with different ideas as to how a little girl should be raised. Thank heaven that's all over . . . Ames will keep me straight now. He's as efficient as you. Just think—I'll never have to worry about paying bills again or getting to places on time or being fired. Don't you envy me just a little?"

October 1938. A room with blue walls and maple furniture. A room in the East Sixties where she sat on a bed, a few hours before she met Max, and said in a warm low voice.

"No, Phyllis, I don't. It isn't that I'm criticizing your marriage or your love for Ames or his for you. It's just that your kind of marriage isn't what I want . . . I suppose I'm a nonconformist. I've always been in myself a sort of problem child. Funny, we've known each other so long and I've never explained myself before. We were always too busy or too sleepy. But I don't want a a cut-and-dried romance, a proper engagement ring, a wedding in the little church in Clinton, a house in the suburbs and babies. A life like that would smother me. When I go home and see my sister and my old friends living like that, I wonder how they endure it. The awful sameness of that kind of living. I wonder that love doesn't wear out. No marriage for me, Phyllis, the usual marriage with the usual man . . ."

She understood Phyllis' puzzled, startled look. "But you're successful, Judith. I'm not. You're really talented, and I'm not. There's nothing else for me to do except get married. Oh, I've a certain flair for drawing, but I'd never be any good."

"And that's another point. Why should I give up the work for which I've been trained to take on a job for which I'm totally untrained? Career girl? Yes. But I know that a career isn't enough for a woman. It wouldn't sustain me entirely. There'd be something vitally lacking. But the usual marriage with the usual man isn't enough for me. I want something better." Warmth and gentleness were in her smile. "Ames is splendid and terribly in love with you. Keep him terribly in love with you."

There were less than a dozen people in the church that afternoon. Ames' father, a stout, jolly man, a widower and an executive in the large company in which his only son was a minor executive, and Ames' uncle and aunt, a dignified elderly couple, comprised her blood relations. The others were friends since Phyllis, indifferent to her frugal, unfriendly New England relations, had asked none of them.

The organ had played softly the familiar strains which to some gathered there brought a sharp sweet memory, to others, a romantic hope. Now the clergyman's deep, sonorous voice was speaking and the sun was shining through the stained glass window. Phyllis, wearing a green suit, the orchids tremulous on her shoulder, stood beside Ames, tall, dark-haired, fine-featured. Behind them stood Judith, slender and erect in a brown suit, her eyes stirred, her pulse uneven. A stranger, Robert Kennedy, Ames' boyhood friend, stood beside her, a tall, thin, smirking young man whose tardiness had postponed the ceremony for several minutes.

Not the usual marriage with the usual man, Judith was thinking Why must she be different? This was so sweet, this open declaration of love, this mingling of lives, this sharing. But did it last? What would they feel a few years hence? Did she expect too much because she wanted to avoid the commonplace? Should she be ashamed that she wished to continue her work? She thought: For this one beautiful moment I envy you, Phyllis, because I'm on the outside looking in.

It was over quickly; the organ played again and Phyllis and Ames were surrounded, Phyllis kissed profusely, Ames' hand shaked . . . Congratulations, darling . . . All the luck in the world . . . You look perfectly lovely . . . You're a lucky guy Ames . . . Judith saw Emily, brown-haired, brown-eyed, pretty, Emily with a new young man, but there was no time to speak to them.

Robert Kennedy turned his smirk upon her. "You're Judith, aren't you? I missed the train in Chicago. Worse luck. I haven't had more than two words with Ames. We're going to see them off, aren't we? Then what? Won't you have dinner with me? We just can't call it a day and let them have all the fun. Was anything else planned?"

"Dinner? All right No, nothing else was planned. Thank you."

An evening with the best man was no doubt expected of her, she thought, following Phyllis and Ames from the church, pounding them with rice and then finding herself, some minutes later, sitting between Robert Kennedy and Ames' father in the latter's car.

The scene at the pier was one of confusion and merriment with baggage, passengers, well-wishes, dogs, telegrams and flowers. Phyllis and Ames' cabin was found eventually and inspected, then the bridal party went on deck where Ames laughingly shook the rice from his hair and Phyllis, laughing, too, emptied her diminutive brown shoe of it. In the noise and milling of people one had to shout to be heard.

"I took one of those cruises once," Kennedy said, remaining close to Judith. "I'll never forget it. Phyllis and Ames will have the privacy of gold fish. There's the signal . . . I suppose you'll want to stand in the mob and wave until they're out of sight."

"I usually do. Do you mind?"

And so Phyllis was kissed again until her mouth was pale, and Ames' hand was pumped until it ached before the small party filed down the gangplank to join the vast crowd of other-well wishers on the pier. Presently the white cruise ship, her flags flying gaily cut the water. Judith saw Phyllis and Ames waving frantically, their smiles now a little weary.

"Wish you were going?" Robert asked.

"Perhaps I shall next year—or rather after Christmas. There's a vacation due me. Have we lost the others? I'd like to say goodbye to Mr. Preston. He lost his only son today." She wanted to see Emily and her new young man, too

"But gained a daughter. Afraid we've lost them in this mob. He's probably gone home to have a good cry. You're getting squashed."

"But I told Phyllis I'd stand here until she and Ames were only specks."

She was not looking at Robert, for he was standing behind her in an effort to protect her from the crowd. She had wanted to see Emily, she thought again, but she had disappeared, too. A moment more of Phyllis and Ames before she turned away to an evening that was somehow to be endured. . . . Standing on her toes, she saw them again, mere specks among other specks on the deck. . . . She waved and smiled again.

But the voice she was next to hear close to her was not Robert Kennedy's too intimate one, but one which so entranced her that it swept her other thoughts from her mind instantly. Suave, deep, clear, precise, a voice to command attention, to give orders, to demand and to be given what it demanded. . . . Strange, she was later to think, that she heard Max's voice before she saw him or knew his name.

"Robert Kennedy, isn't it? I thought I recognized you. I believe the last time I saw you and the first was on a West Indies cruise."

Robert Kennedy was flattered. The voice made him less pleased with himself, less confident.

"Oh, yes! How are you? Seeing somebody off? . . . I'm sorry, but I can't quite remember—"

"Max Worthington."

"Oh, sure. Sorry. Terrible at remembering names, but I remembered you. Judith—"

She was unwilling to turn lest the man not belong to the voice, lest he not be worthy of it. But slowly she did turn, seeing Max for the first time. Seeing the stern features and the fair hair that grew back from his high forehead and the blue eyes that were intense and knowing and humorous—eyes that took in all of her in one single, swift, penetrating glance.

Not as tall as Robert Kennedy but more powerfully built, Max wore gray tweeds. Judith thought that some woman probably had selected his item so "right" was the shade of the blue that deepened the blueness of his eyes. But it was his mouth that fascinated her most, a mouth both sensuous and sensitive.

He was a flame to her imagination, making questions fly like sparks across her mind. So solidly he stood that no one jolted him. People would walk around him, she thought, once he stood his ground. Vainly she tried to place him in some business or profession. But Max Worthington could be one of so many things and places.

Robert was introducing them. . . . And while they were murmuring the usual things, she wondered whether Max saw amusement in her eyes as the result of her sudden realization that he had sought Robert in order to meet her. How long had he been looking at her? She knew that Max Worthington would not deliberately seek to renew the acquaintance of a young man like Robert and that Robert's shallowness of character was as obvious to him as to her. While she had been waving to Phyllis and Ames, Max had been making up his mind to meet her.

"Seeing somebody off?" Robert asked again foolishly. "We've just been attendants at a wedding."

Judith saw Max's unconcealed contempt for Robert's thin layer of sophistication and for his air of possessiveness toward her expressed by the taking of her arm.

"I was seeing a friend off," Max said quietly. But he was looking at Judith.

"Taken any more cruises lately? I've been transferred to Chicago and I don't get East very often these days. I almost didn't get to the wedding today."

"Really?" Max asked. Still looking at Judith he asked, "Judith Barth, is it?"

"Yes."

That one word "yes" was all she said to him except the lost pleasantries after their introductions. For Max nodded his good-bye, smiled at her and her eyes followed his quick steps through the crowd until she could see him no more. Why had he been so careful to be certain of her name? Why, if—

But Robert was saying, "Let's go buy a bucket of red paint. Where would you like to go, darling?"

Darling! She drew away from his possessive touch, thinking that Max Worthington would never say "darling" like that and knowing with a sudden, sureness that she would not draw away from his touch.

"I'm a working girl, not a glamor-girl, Robert. I brought work home for the week-end."

"You're both to me. Let's go. I need a drink."

Half an hour later they were having cocktails in a mirrored lounge and Robert, for the moment had, exhausted the subject of himself.

"Do you know Max Worthington well, Robert?"

"Call me Bob, honey. I can't honestly say I know him at all. I met him on a cruise. Snooty sort of guy. He was coming back from the Canal Zone. He's an engineer, I think."

IRTH RECORDS 'STREAMLINED'

wa Health Authorities Use New Form of Recording Vital Statistics.

(By United Press)

DES MOINES, Ia.—Iowa health ficials have won a long battle ith federal agencies for approval a "streamlined" certificate for rsons whose births were not re-rded officially.

The new form, prepared by Dr. ic P. Pfeiffer, Iowa director of tal statistics, is intended to ake it harder for aliens to pre-nd birth in the United States.

It was suggested by the feder- bureau of census last March, it other government agencies lked at accepting it.

The United States veterans ureau and the civil service commission both shied at it. And only after weeks of correspondence and conferring with the U. S. attorney general's office was it given approval.

"With the new form," Dr. Pfeiffer declares, "defense plant managers and others who wish to hire only American citizens can see just what they are getting. The old form was a blanket affidavit often based on nothing but an entry in an alleged family bible. The new one has the evidence right on it in black and white."

The new form actually is not a birth certificate at all. It merely certifies that evidence of the person's birth at a certain place and date has been found in one or more of 14 possible sources, such as county clerk's records, insurance policies, doctor's office records or church documents.

It is estimated that 60,000 Americans had no records of their births until the onset of the defense program with a birth certificate necessary for many jobs.

HAS COLLECTION OF 700 PITCHERS

CHANUTE, Kan.—(U.P.)—Mrs. E. L. Caldwell's hobby is assuming the proportions of a white elephant.

Four years ago she began collecting pitchers. Now she has more than 700, some of which she has purchased but most of which have been gifts of her family, friends and interested persons.

The collection has filled six china cabinets, several tables, a couple of book cases and now is overflowing onto the piano, mantle and windowsills. And the pitchers still arrive at the Caldwell home at the rate of three a week.

She has insured the collection for $1,000 but has no idea of its actual value.

Streamlined Comedy.

"Appointment For Love," a streamlined comedy-romance co-starring Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullivan, is now showing at the Ohio. Played against New York's glittering background of theaters and cafes the comedy presents Boyer as a playwright more adept at handling affairs of the heart in his scripts than he is in real life. Miss Sullavan is cast as a feminine careerist, a doctor bent upon maintaining a happy marriage by establishing separate homes. Their domesticity is interrupted by Rita Johnson as the husband's ex-sweetheart and Reginald Denny as a former suitor of the wife.

Campus Caper.

The long-maligned absent-minded professor comes to the screen in the person of Donald Meek in the current production, "Rise and Shine," showing at the Madison. Meek does everything an absent-minded man has been said to do as he agrees to take an all-American fullback into his custody until after the big game. Jack Oakie plays the football player and the cast has Linda Darnell and George Murphy in the romantic leads. Walter Brennan and Milton Berle are also cast. "Obliging Young Lady," with Joan Carroll and Ruth Warrick is the co-attraction.

Aerial Episode.

England's R. A. F. plans an objective and executes the plan in "Target For Tonight," a thrilling aerial episode showing at the Ritz. The picture contains actual "shots" of the R. A. F. in action. Brenda and Cobina are teamed with Don Wilson in "Swing It Soldier," the second picture.

Western Musical.

"Go West Young Lady," featuring Penny Singleton and Glenn Ford, at the Park shows what an amazon army can do once it gets started. The west during the days the white man was imperilled by Indians furnishes the locale and the picture is sprinkled with songs and music by Bob Miller and His Texas Playboys, a hill-billy band. Charley Ruggles, Ann Miller and Allen Jenkins are in the cast. "Top Sergeant Mulligan," a hilarious comedy of camp life starring Nat Pendleton, is the second attraction.

FILES SUIT

ASHLAND — Suit for damages of $1,500 has been filed in Ashland common pleas court by Amanda Byerly, administratrix of the estate of William S. Byerly, deceased, Perrysville R. D., against the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

The petition alleges that William S. Byerly died March 14, 1941, as a result of injuries received Feb. 22, 1941, when a car in which he was riding as a passenger was struck by a locomotive at Chapel crossing in Green township.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — As was remarked here quite recently, on good authority, in our army now building, less than 10 officers in every 100 were in the army three years. As that army rapidly multiplies on present plans to three, four or even ten million men that percentage will decline until we have one World war One officer to a hundred.

Gen. Johnson.

Of course there are shocking danger signs. No parent wants to trust the care and leadership of a son to arbitrary command in a life and death struggle to a man whose only outward sign of competence is a piece of metal insignia on his collar.

It is true that all this is not quite as bad as it sounds. Thousands of these military commissions are not in combat groups at all. They are various kinds of specialists,—engineers, doctors and technicians where the basic professional training may be expected to do as good or even better than in the regular army.

Under our army theory and system all these men are supposed to be under military law and command. This, according to tradition, carries the uniform and the soldier's oath and obligation.

I have no late trustworthy break-down of the figures showing the percentage of this group, but the fact remains that, among combat troops, it is very low and will go lower to an almost absurd degree.

Also some of these men have rudimentary reserve training and at least know what a soldier looks like but the men remaining in these reserves are dwindling daily.

Intensive training of hundreds of thousands of combat officers seems to be a subject which, in the jam and rush of building the world's greatest army, is not getting the attention it deserves.

Much more could be done. Indeed, in the training of air-fighters, miracles have been done and are being done daily. The job is a little different. The end to be gained is far more specialized and the basic training need not be as broad. The training of line officers will take more time.

In the meantime, a rather vicious practice is going on. Men come to Washington who don't know "squads west" but, by reason of business experience, or special standing, apply for army administrative jobs—by the dozens.

We don't want to pull an army administrator, trained also as a soldier, out of our scant reserve of soldiers. But, in the Washington hierarchy of rank, and out in the field, this fellow suddenly appears in a major's or lieutenant colonel's uniform.

There he stays—"for the duration" and sometimes longer. This may happen although he never saw a day's service. There are regular field soldiers who have served nearly ten years and are only captains. They will remain below the one-day major or lieutenant colonel in rank as long as this war lasts unless they are, by good luck and opportunity, selected for efficiency.

After the World war, officers of such short service remained as a "hump" in the promotion list to stymie promotion for many years. It forced army morale down to its lowest ebb right up to the day this war began.

These are lessons of experience. Like so many others in industrial and man-power mobilization—they ought not to be allowed to happen again.

HOUSE OHIOANS DECLARE SELVES PENSION 'ANTIS'

Delegation's Petition Calls For Repeal of Bill To Pay For Retirement.

WASHINGTON—Ohio Republicans in the house of representatives today declared themselves opposed to pensions for congressmen.

Republican members of Ohio's delegation in the house signed a statement urging repeal of the section of the recently-approved retirement act which provides the controversial pensions.

The G. O. P. statement pledged the delegation to "force" the measure to the house floor for a vote and declared that they would vote against it.

(The bill passed the house Dec. 11 without a roll call and under unanimous consent procedure. Objection by a single member would have blocked passage.)

"The only time during our incumbency when we had an opportunity to vote on this proposal, we voted against it," the statement said. "That was in July, 1939 at which time the plan was defeated 119 to 73."

Four Ohioans have introduced repealer bills and one, Rep. Frederick C. Smith, (R, Marion) has served notice that he will attempt to bring his measure to the floor by petition if the house civil service committee fails to report it. The Ohio Republicans pledged support to such a petition if the committee fails to act.

Other repeal bills have been introduced by Sen. Harold H. Burton, (R, Cleveland) and Rep. A. David Baumart, (R, Vermilion) and Robert F. Jones, (R, Lima.)

Baumart, a member of the civil service committee, charged today that passage of the bill was accomplished by "a legislative trick." He said the bill was "hastened through the house under unanimous consent agreement, without any action to acquaint members with the purpose and significance of the amendment."

He charged that the law "borders on official treasury raiding."

RECEIPTS DOWN

County Collections on Sales Tax Show Decline.

While sales tax receipts in Ohio for the final week of January were showing a slight increase over the corresponding week last year, Richland county collections dropped $936, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

The decrease in the county left the total collections for January approximately $130 below the sales tax receipts during the month last year, the report showed.

Richland county receipts for the month amounted to $43,573 this year and $43,701 in 1941. The county's collections for the final week of the month declined to $9,445 this year from $10,381 last year.

Brisk sales of food supplies and household furnishings more than offset the loss from declining automobile and tire sales in the state, Ebright said.

WOMAN HELD AS CHEF'S SLAYER

Noted Cook Found Slashed To Death; Fiancee Tells of Plans For Wedding.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Louis Bost, 37, one of the country's best known chefs, was found slain in his apartment early today. His fiancee, Miss June Olderman, 36, of Dorchester, Mass., was arrested by police and charged with homicide.

Miss Olderman knocked on the door of the apartment house superintendent at 3 a. m., and, when he responded, said: "Something has happened to my friend." He went to Bost's apartment and found him sprawled on the bed, dead, his chest lacerated by several knife wounds.

Miss Olderman told police she arrived yesterday from Dorchester for a vacation and to marry Bost. They quarreled intermittently until early this morning when, she said, Bost suddenly "thrust something into my hand."

"My mind went blank," she continued. "I don't know what happened then."

Detectives found a long bladed pocket knife in a drawer of a bureau in the room. This, they believed, was the weapon which killed the chef.

Bost, a Frenchman, was chef at the Stork club, New York's smartest night club and the temple of cafe society. He formerly was chef at the Ritz-Carlton, the Westchester Country club, and Bradley's in Palm Beach. Miss Olderman is a switchboard operator.

WELL, THIS OUGHT TO SAVE WEAR, TEAR ON CAN OPENERS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A sharp reduction in the supply of tin cans posed a fresh wartime problem today for America's housewives, already facing sugar rationing, doing without silk hose and walking to the store to save tires.

The war production board announced that after March 1 such common products as pork and beans, coffee, dog food, beer, tobacco and oil must not be packed in tinned containers. Use of tin cans for certain "secondary" and "special" products will be restricted to the 1940 output, and the manufacture of small-size can will be eliminated.

No limit was set, however, on the use of tin for preserving such perishables as important fruits and vegetables, tomato juice, milk and fish.

Tin is on the list of critical metals as a result of the war.

WPB experts estimated that the new order cut the use of tin by can manufacturers as much as 40 per cent, saving at least 15,500 tons a year.

Assurance that "the public need have no fear that there will be any shortage of the essential food products" came from Paul S. Willis, president of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America. He said that warehouse stocks of canned goods were so large that the public would not notice the effect of the order for some time. Meanwhile, research experts are working on substitute packaging methods, Willis said.

The secondary food products, cans for which will be limited to last year's number, include apples, peaches, pineapples, prunes and other fruits and vegetables.

MISS HESS DIES

Brief Illness Ends In Death of Fredericktown Woman.

FREDERICKTOWN—Miss Mattie Hess, 55, died at her home here today following a brief illness.

A bookkeeper at the Foote Foundry for the past 20 years, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Nettie Hess, five nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Bollinger funeral home. Rev. G. O. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be in Ankenytown cemtery.

Mansfielders may be getting accustomed to going into production while it's still dark these "war time" mornings but the change of time seems to be pretty bewildering to the hens belonging to a Wayne street family. No eggs were in the nests when Mrs. Fred Stanslowsky paid her customary morning visit to the poultry house this week. This, she decided, was very strange, until she concluded that the confused birds had apparently given up waiting for daylight and had "produced" on the roosts, only to have their eggs break on the floor below.

Betty Mae Thompson, switchboard operator in the municipal building, is no criminal but she's probably been fingerprinted more than anyone else in the building. She was fingerprinted first when the government began a check on persons holding pilot licenses late last year. She was fingerprinted again when the licenses were reissued. Miss Thompson had her prints taken the third time in connection with the civilian defense program and is now scheduled to have them taken a fourth time along with other city hall employes.

Scores of Mansfield shoppers spent pennies and nickels needlessly today because they forgot it was Lincoln's birthday and a legal holiday. Motorists are permitted to park without charge in the downtown area on holidays, but many of them put their coins into parking meters anyway. Probably in some instances motorists who weren't sure about the parking regulations preferred to drop a coin in the meter and take no chances of being cited for illegal parking.

Mansfield Community Players can well take a bow for their selection of plays this season judging from the current issue of Center Aisle, a publication devoted to communal theaters. "Mr. and Mrs. North," the Owen Davis comedy, slated by the Players for their third and last production, March 10, headed the list of 33 plays favored by 78 communal theaters last month. The season's leaders among 387 productions covered by Center Aisle since October also include the two former comedies staged by the local group. "George Washington Slept Here" ranked second in the standings, and "The Man Who Came to Dinner" was third.

PERSONNEL TO MAN COUNTY'S STAFFS NAMED

Volunteers To Serve at 21 Stations Where Men 20-45 Will Register.

With volunteer personnel named for 21 registration places in the city and county rural areas, Richland county draft boards were ready today for the registration of men from 20 to 45 years old which is scheduled to open at noon Saturday.

The registration places, located for the most part in public buildings such as schools, township halls, and park pavilions, will be open Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 12 to 6 p. m. and Monday from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Draft boards pointed out that men between the ages of 21 and 35 who registered in October, 1940 and July, 1941, are not required to register again this week-end.

All unregistered men who were 20 years old on or before last Dec. 31, and who have not reached the age of 45 next Monday must sign up for possible service in the army.

Draft boards will supervise the registration, but volunteer registrants will be at the 20 registration places in every section of the county. Members of the American Legion and its auxiliary have volunteered to help along with a number of other persons who assisted with the first big registration in 1940.

The county draft boards have received their new registration supplies and additional filing cabinets for the approximately 6,000 additional cards they expect to file this week-end. The registration cards will be green this time. They were white and melon-colored for the other two registrations.

Board 1, covering the part of Mansfield westward from the center of Main street to the city limits, will have five places to register, each in charge of a board member. Board 2 has set eight places to sign up in the half of Mansfield east from the center of Main street and in all Madison township outside the city.

The Board 3 area, including Shelby and all of the county outside Mansfield and Madison township, has designated eight registration places. Men are urged by the boards to register in their own communities or at the registration place nearest their home.

The registration places are:

Board 1 — Board headquarters at 603 Farmers Bank building; American Legion home, Park avenue west; Prospect park pavilion; Brinkerhoff school on Marion avenue; John's park pavilion.

Board 2 — Board headquarters on ninth floor of the Richland Trust building; Delano lodge hall on Bowman street; Newman school; Sons of Herman hall on Orange street; Madison high school; Hedges school; No. 3 fire station on Chestnut street; Bushnell school, East Fourth street.

Board 3—Shelby, city hall; Shiloh, township house; Lexington, town hall; Lucas, Lucas State bank; Bellville, council chamber; Butler, council room; Weller township, Union rural high school; Mansfield, court of appeals room, third floor of the courthouse.

Boy, 13, Saves 3 Brothers as Fire Razes Residence

SPRINGFIELD—(INS)—Battling his way through thick walls of smoke, a 13-year-old hero today carried three brothers, one of them crippled, to safety as a raging fire leveled the family home.

The odor of smoke and crackle of flames awakened the boy, Robert Lewis, shortly after midnight. He made his way out of the house for air. Then, realizing his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Lewis, were away, he battled his way back through smoke to the second floor to save his brothers, Oscar, 10, and Eldon, 4.

Meanwhile, Gordon, 15, a cripple and unable to help himself, lay abed on the first floor. Although suffering from effects of smoke, Robert returned to the house again and carried out his crippled brother before collapsing.

Firemen summoned by neighbors could not determine cause of the blaze.

Westinghouse Wins First City 'A' Basketball Title

Sport Podge by REX HESS

In spite of all the words of cheer spoken by Ohio State League Prexy Joe Donnelly at the circuit's Tuesday night meeting at Tiffin, and in spite of the fact that the announcement was made that the league was set to go in 1942 with the same six teams that performed last season, Mansfield is no nearer having professional baseball today than it has been throughout a winter of frank pessimism.

The word to stop or go is yet to be given by the owners of the Mansfield ball club, but they're going to have to give that word pretty soon. The few players still belonging to the club have a right to learn, and soon, whether or not they are free agents.

The Tiffin Advertiser-Tribune, reporting Tuesday's meeting, says all six league teams were represented in person or by proxy.

It's possible that Prexy Donnelly attempted to hold the league together by voting proxies, in the hope that the teams not represented at the meeting might be talked into staying in the circuit. Mansfield wasn't represented in person.

If Donnelly had a proxy from President George Satterlee of the Braves, Satterlee's fellow club owners, Dr. Frank Maxwell and Bill Mead, know nothing about it. And Satterlee is out of town.

"I'm not interested in carrying on with the Braves," Dr. Maxwell told me. "It's a losing proposition and I see no reason why we should continue it."

"That," I said, "seems to be Bill Mead's idea too. He told me late last summer that he'd drop no more nickels on the Braves."

"Yes," said Maxwell, "and I don't think Satterlee is so interested either."

Anybody wanta buy a ball club?

Even if the club owners should suddenly become enthused, and decide to try it one more year, it looks from here as though they'd have a tough time preparing a diamond in time for play in May, if they carried out their announced intention of never playing again at the Fairgorund.

They've still got a fence, but they'd have to put up some sort of grandstand, and materials aren't easy to get. There's a war going on.

Of course they could still play at the Fairground and rent back the third base bleachers they sold to the high school last fall.

No more will we hear the clarion call
Of the guy in blue who bawls "Play ball!"
Nor will young fanettes, the little dears,
Shriek their shrill jeers at old "Rabbit ears."
How sleep the Braves? The Braves are dead.
They turned blue from being in the red.

FLASH — GEORGE SATTERLEE LOCATED!

Comes a post card this morning from the Braves' prexy in St. Johnsville, N. Y., that says:

"Here I am surrounded by snow and ice—5 below zero. Missed the league meeting Tuesday night. Am going to visit George Burns and some of the officials of the Gloversville team tomorrow. Will see you in about 10 days. Had our first blackout."

So maybe there's something doing in baseball here after all. Satterlee is still playing around with baseball men.

2 Detroit Clubs Lose To Ohioans

Toledo Clips Detroit U. While Defiance Nips Tech.

(By Associated Press)

Detroit basketball teams should have a healthy respect for Ohio outfits today.

Last night Detroit university took a 45-23 beating from Toledo university in the Rockets' field house, and Detroit Tech bowed to Defiance, 62 to 48, beside the Maumee.

It was Toledo's 17th victory of the season. Detroit made two free throws to begin the scoring but it was the only time the visitors led. Frankie Clemons, Rocket forward, was high scorer with 15 points.

* * *

Defiance, avenging an early-season 39-28 defeat by Tech, swept to a 7-0 lead in the opening minutes of the game and Detroit never caught up. Defiance Center Olan Smith grabbed 21 points for scoring honors.

* * *

At Columbus Capital university added Otterbein to its list of victims, 59 to 47, in an Ohio conference tilt. It was Cap's tenth win—eighth in the conference.

Bob Geist, Capital center, garnered 23 points and ran his season's total to 188.

At Huntington, W. Va., Marshall college defeated Xavier university, 59 to 49. Bert Robben, Musketeer center, pocketed 28 points and Dan Benda made 24 to lead the Marshall squad.

A soldier team from Fort Hayes traveled to Wooster and took a 78-32 shellacking. Findlay defeated Bluffton, 63 to 42, at Bluffton with Findlay Forward Ken Zuercher getting 19 points for scoring honors.

Prexies Play 'Home' At Shelby

SHELBY—Marion Harding will play its "home" game here Friday night with the Shelby Whippets.

As Marion does not have a floor suitable for playing North Central Ohio league cage games on in its own city, it has been playing all of the games away. On its home game on a court, Harding hires the officials and takes the receipts the same as it would if the game was held at Marion.

The Whippets were defeated by Harding by a small margin earlier this year.

Harding has won six games out of seven and is tied with Mount Vernon for the lead of the cage race.

North Central Ohio League standing:

	Won	Lost
Mount Vernon	6	1
Marion Harding	6	1
Ashland	5	2
Bucyrus	3	4
Shelby	1	6

Mansfield bowling teams have until Monday night to file entries for the Inter-City tournament at Lorain, and increase Mansfield's chances of obtaining the tournament for next year.

Thus far 30 Mansfield teams are entered, 10 regular and 20 booster teams. Efforts are being made to line up at least 10 more booster teams. Among those recently entered are: two by Tappan Stove, American Legion, Art Rattan and Dougherty Frat.

Brig Young Gives Lesson

Hits 714 Total To Pace City 'A' Loop.

Veteran Brig Young limbered up his aging arm and showed the City "A" league keglers how to bowl again last night as he turned in the league's high total of 714 on games of 233-224-257.

Two weeks ago Brig led the "A" league with a score of 700, and came right back with a near-700 count in the Moose loop. His 257 was high game last night.

Brig's lesson was well taken by his alley mates. There were no less than eleven 600 series turned in, and 46 games over 200.

Orange Street Cafe marked up a 3141 total on games of 1028-1041-1003, Brig's Goebel Beer team had 3111 on games of 975-1067-1069, and Bissman Birdie Brands had 3048 on 968-1048-1032.

In the 600 list were: Shepherd 650, Korn 623, Grohol 620, Weems 695, Lettiker 613, Grable 658, Henrich 638, Phillipon 659, Dale Cleckner 635, Hipp 651 and Hilborn 618.

Eastern Champion at 13

Dorothy Goos, 13-year-old New York girl from the Bronx, won the eastern women's figure skating championship and is aiming for national laurels at Chicago later this month. Dorothy, who impressed the experts with a series of difficult jumps and spins in her free skating performance, also took the junior pairs title with Eddie Lemaire. She won the eastern junior title and the national novice crown last year. Dorothy says she decided to learn to skate after seeing Sonja Henie in a movie.

Golfing Baseballers Name St. Louis to Trim Dodgers

By JOHN WILDS

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Golfing baseball players—30 of them taking part in their championship tournament here—look for St. Louis to shade those champion Brooklyn Dodgers in a nip-and-tuck National league campaign this year.

Only four dared mention any team but the Yankees in the American league.

Behind St. Louis and Brooklyn, Cincinnati received strong support in a poll of the golfers, all past or present big leagues.

* * *

The Cardinals were a hairline choice. Eight picked them outright and six others gave them a split vote. The defending champion Dodgers were liked by seven, and drew support from seven others who couldn't decide among them, the Cards or the Reds.

Five players named Cincinnati, and three others gave them part of a ballot.

Al Lopez, the Pittsburgh catcher, selected the Pirates—the only other National league club given consideration.

"Yankees," blurted out 24 of those polled when the American league was mentioned. One said he thought either New York or Boston would triumph, and two drew no distinction between New York and Cleveland.

Rollie Hemsley, the Reds' new catcher, came out for the Chicago White Sox—explaining the club has a number of older players who won't be affected by the draft.

Most of those questioned qualified their choices with the observation that they were made on the basis of present rosters, and were subject to change if many players were called into the service.

Out on the course, the ball players proved themselves to be no mean shakes as golfers.

Three shot even par 72's to enter today's second round all even. They were Wes Ferrell, former major league pitcher; Heinie Manush, former Detroit outfielder now managing Greensboro, N. C., of the Piedmont league; and Ray Lenahan, who pitched for Pittsburgh in 1918.

Defending champion Merv Shea had a 73.

GASCO WINS MATCH

Gasco riflemen defeated Mt. Vernon on the Gasco range 1399 to 1262 in a recent shoot. O. Frantz led the Mansfielders with 288, while H Dillon had 280. Four Mansfield marksmen tied at 277. They were: L. Arntz, C. Hassinger, Paul Hughes and Mrs. Hughes. First five scores count.

TIRE RATIONING HITS APPLESEED ATHLETICS

Tire rationing hit Johnny Appleseed junior high athletics yesterday afternoon.

Mt. Vernon junior high cagers were scheduled to play at Appleseed in a return game, but phoned during the day to say they were unable to get transportation because Mt. Vernon motorists were saving their tires..

Appleseed is scheduled at Willard tomorrow night, and meets Loudonville here Monday.

Simpson Cops Galion Game

High Scoring Third Frame Gives Mansfielders Win.

Staging a brilliant third quarter, the John Simpson junior high school basketeers swamped Galion junior high school, 35-17, yesterday on the Mansfield club's court.

Leading, 6-0, at the end of the first stanza, the Simpson team saw its advantage fade, 7-6, at the end of the half, but rallied as the second half opened.

* * *

Throwing in 16 points to Galion's five, they led, 22-12, at the end of the third frame.

* * *

High scorer was Mike Zivkoff of Simpson with six baskets and three free throws for a total of 15 points.

The Simpson reserves won their game, 26-6.

Michigan Trims Ohio Swimmers

COLUMBUS — (AP) — John Patten, Michigan university's free-stylist de luxe, won two firsts for the only double of the evening last night as the Wolverine swimmers defeated Ohio State university, 48 to 36.

* * *

Patten took first places in the 220 and 440 yard free style events. His time of 2:12.3 bettered the Western conference record for the 220, but will not go into the record books since the only marks recognized are those made in the Big Ten meet.

* * *

Ohio won only two firsts in the nine-place meet: the 440-yard free style relay and the 50-yard free style.

Double Score Over Athletics In Play-Off

Tight Defensive Game Combined With Superior Passwork Counts

By REX HESS, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD Westinghouse cagers last night won their first City "A" league basketball title, defeating Athletic Supplies 30-15 in a hard, and sometimes bruising battle at the high school gym, in a play-off for the loop crown.

Westinghouse had taken the first half championship, and the Supplies had copped the second half laurels in the regular season which closed a week ago.

Playing a tight defensive game and displaying superior passwork, the Westies, sparked by Howard Poole, steadily but surely piled up their game winning margin.

At the quarter they were out in front 9 to 4, and they were outscored only in the second period, 5-4, as they held a 13-9 margin at the half. This was boosted to 21-13 at the third quarter, and the Westies held the Supplies to two points in the final stanza.

Hummell opened the scoring for Westinghouse under the hoop, and Lyons tied it up with a shot from the side. Then the Westies took a lead that was never seriously threatened as Shade tallied under the bucket, Hummell scored from the side, and Rudolph got a free point to make it 7-2. Shelley counted for the Athletics on a fast break, and Poole ended the quarter scoring at 9-4 with a side shot.

McGinty and Rudolph matched buckets under the hoops, and Morgan added a free point for the Supplies. The Athletics brought the count to 9-11 on free tosses by Shelley and McGinty before Poole uncorked a one-hander from the side for the 13-9 half-way count.

Westinghouse doubled the score at 18-9 before the Athletics could get going again. Shade got a free point, Hummell scored from the corner and Fackler under the hoop. McGinty finally tallied under the hoop for the Supplies.

Poole got a free point, and then caged a one hander from the side to make it 21-11. Phillips connected under the hoop for the Athletics to close the third period scoring.

Once more Westinghouse stepped out to double the score, at 26-13 on five straight free shots, three by Fackler and two by Shade. Lyons scored the Athletics' only points of the last period on a long shot. Poole got another free point, Shade a follow shot, and Poole another charity point.

In the preliminary game Willard Studebakers, after trailing almost the entire way, tied the score in the closing seconds and edged a strengthened Yuncker Sports club 26-24.

* * *

The score was tied at the quarter 3-3, but Yuncker's gained a 9-4 margin at the half and were still ahead 17-16 at the third quarter. The Sports continued in the lead almost to the end when Willard tied it up at 23-23. In the first overtime period each team scored one point, and in the sudden death session Willard came through with the deciding bucket.

FAMILIES FACE TOP CASH NEED AFTER 25 YEARS

Financial Stress Found to Be Greatest When Youth Go To College.

(By United Press)

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Family financial worries are greatest between the 25th and 30th year of married life when sons and daughters enroll in college, according to a University of Illinois survey.

The College of Agriculture after examining the home accounts of 473 farm families, found numerous expenditures were added during that period.

Son and daughter continue to need money from home. Clothing and food expenses stay at a high level. Long time borrowings made when father was young come due. And youthful demands for a more attractive home require major housing improvements.

"These few years are going to mean a tight squeeze unless financial planning is started early to prevent mortgages and other debts from coming due at the peak period of expense," the survey advised.

A breakdown of family expenses for each five years of married life showed that during the first five years, food, automobile, shelter, operating costs and clothing take most of the young husband's pay check. Savings may also be fairly large.

As the family grew and became more settled during the next five years, all expenses except automobile increase. More money is spent on home furnishings and savings, including life insurance, increase.

When the couple have been married 10 to 15 years, automobile, shelter, operating costs go down slightly. While saving decreases, major housing improvements increase.

"In the following five years, savings loom increasingly large," the survey said, "and investments and principal payments on notes take a large amount of the family budget. . . . Thus by the start of the 25-30 year marriage period, the family has built up a multitude of demands on the family purse.

"In the years following this period of heavy drain, all of the major items of expense for living decrease rapidly, although savings still take a large amount of money to provide an income for old age."

The lecture, free and open to the public, will be given at 8 p. m. in the library's Larwill room. The Garden Center will also be open that night so that garden-growers may see the Victory Garden suggestions exhibited by Town and Country Garden club.

Mistake Permits Gold Miners to 'Strike It Rich'

GRANTS PASS, Ore.—(INS)—Realizing the dream of all prospectors, Bert McTimmonds of Grants Pass and Chauncey Florey of Central Point, finaly "struck it rich."

Displaying a gallon jug filled with "jewelry rock" that contained $500 worth of gold, McTimmonds declared the strike all came through another man's mistake.

"I lived like a coyote while I was huntin' for that yelow stuff," McTimmonds said. "I slept on the ground under a wagon bed and spent a score of years huntin' for it."

Telling how he made good on a "mistake," McTimmonds explained that he and his partner, Florey, originally staked the claim and worked it without results. Discouraged, they leased it to a company last year but the company quit after sinking a tunnel that was supposed to hit another shaft but missed by 15 feet.

"That's where I got lucky," the prospector declared. "I took the mine back and decided to straighten out that connection with a lateral tunnel.

"Six feet in on the lateral connection, I hit the 'jewelry.'

"Now I can pay my defts!"

'Ghosts' Appear In Mansfield Monday At Midnight Show

Spectators will float overhead and ghosts will invade the audience when "The Amazing Dr. Marquis," brings his "Horrorscopes of 1942," to the Park theater Monday night, Feb. 16, for a single midnight performance.

Reported to have devoted more than two decades to the strange business of "ghost hunting," Dr. Marquis attended seances in England with the late Sir Conan Doyle and has visited Haiti to study the strange rites of voodoo.

More than 50 mysterious feats will be presented in the performance when Dr Marquis will duplicate some of the mediumistic phenomena he has witnessed during his career. A chiller-diller screen attraction will supplement the stage show.

MEDICAL UNITS URGED TO FILL DEFENSE NEED

Emergency Squad Setup By General Hospitals Called Vital.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—The nation's general hospitals have been asked to contribute to the defense effort by forming field casualty services in seaboard states and the industrial areas of the interior, it was revealed in a bulletin released by the medical division of the office of civilian defense.

Detailed plans contained in the bulletin call for the erection of an emergency medical service as a section of the local defense organizations throughout the country, working in co-operation with welfare, police, and other emergency services.

The plans have the approval of Fiorello H. LaGuardia, director of civilian defense.

"To those who do not as yet appreciate the need for action," LaGuardia said, "I should like to quote from a similar bulletin issued in England in 1938, just prior to the beginning of hostilities, which describes measures for safe-guarding the civilian population:

"'The need for these measures is not related to any belief that war is imminent. It arises from the fact that the risk of attack from the air, however remote it may be, is a risk that cannot be ignored, and because preparations to minimize the consequences of attack from the air cannot be improvised on the spur of the moment, but must be made, if they are to be effective, in time of peace.'"

The local medical service, the bulletin said, is to be under a director responsible to the local head of civilian defense. It will be the director's job to make inventory of the community's medical resources and facilities and to prepare local plans, develop an organization and provide for the training of personnel to carry out the functions of the service.

The emergency field unit, the bulletin indicated, is to be composed of two or more squads with their individual commanders and a physician commanding the entire unit. The bed capacity of the parent hospital determines the number of squads.

Personnel of the squads, depending upon their size, consists of two or more physicians, two or more nurses, and two or more orderlies. All should be instructed in first aid, including care of burns, prevention of shock, control of hemorrhage, emergency treatment of fractures and wounds, and in the technique of decontamination.

The function of the squad is to set up a casualty station at the site of a disaster where first aid treatment may be administered and the seriously injured picked up by police or fire department rescue units for transportation to a hospital.

The bulletin recommended the establishment of the Emergency Medical service as soon as possible and advocated monthly drills to bring the field units to maximum efficiency.

HAVE CURE FOR ATTENDANCE LAG

KILGORE, Tex.—(U.P.)—You can get the goat of the Kilgore Lions club by being absent from the weekly meetings, and literally.

Names of members who miss meetings are put in a hat and one is drawn out. That person gets Maurine, the club's new nanny goat, and he must keep the animal until the next meeting.

Morris Wolf got the goat on the first drawing. It was delivered to his store. After the goat had partaken of the stock from several shelves, Wolf declared:

"I'll never miss another meeting—not so long as I live."

ASK REDOUBLED EFFORT IN WAR

Congressional Leaders Seek To Offset Conceded Loss of Singapore.

heart because of the events in the first two months of the war."

Senator George (D., Ga.) predicted that Japanese capture of Singapore would be followed by all-out attacks on the Netherlands Indies and Burma. It was in these two theaters, he said, that all possible American equipment must be concentrated swiftly.

There was little congressional optimism about the ability of the United Nations to hold the Indies. Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) of the senate naval committee said it was hard to see how the Japanese could be stopped short of Australia.

Walsh was of the opinion that the United Nations could do little more than fight delaying actions in the southwest Pacific, with occasional offensive forays, until the United States had built up overwhelming military strength.

That might take 18 months, he said, but he predicted that when the time arrived this country would make an all-out offensive sweep which would crush Japanese outposts and lay Japan proper open to smashing attack.

Walsh and others apparently looked with approval, meanwhile, on the appointment of Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich of the Royal Netherlands navy to command the United Nations naval forces in the western Pacific. Helfrich succeeds Admiral Thomas C. Hart, of the American Asiatic fleet, who asked to be relieved of his command because of ill health.

The army contingents which have been sent to help guard Curacao and Aruba also will be operating under Dutch direction, the state department disclosed last night in announcing that the troops had been sent at the request of the Netherlands government.

The department said that the U. S. forces would be under the general supervision of the governor of Curacao and would be withdrawn at the end of the war.

This was the second instance where American troops have been assigned to help Dutch forces in this hemisphere. Late in November a U. S. army contingent landed in Dutch Guiana to help the Netherlands forces there guard that colony's rich bauxite mines, which supply much of the ore the United States needs for the manufacture of aluminum.

Curacao and Aruba are two of the six islands which make up the Dutch West Indies colony.

of vital war legislation today to hear a reading of Lincoln's famous Gettysburg address.

Speaking at a Lincoln day rally in Washington last night, former Gov. Alf. M. Landon of Kansas, the 1936 G. O. P. presidential nominee, called for "new leaders" whenever victory is endangered by official bungling and urged a 25 per cent cut in non-military spending and a ban on war profiteering.

He asserted that "every citizen owes it to his country to give the president wholehearted support in his prosecution of the war," but added that President Roosevelt had failed to make clear "the staggering sacrifices ahead."

Landon said there was "deep concern among observant citizens at our unpreparedness, despite all the appropriations by congress for our armed forces." He added that "at best, it may be a long, long time before we achieve ultimate victory. There is an appalling amount of wishful thinking in this country. To many citizens the war is still remote. The American people listen for the voice of our president."

At other Lincoln day dinners tonight, Wendell L. Willkie will speak in Boston, Thomas E. Dewey at New York, and Senator Robert A. Taft at Knoxville, Tenn.
